1974 Marks Warren's

THESE SHOTS OF the Decatur Central game show the typical action that the Warren fans saw during the 1954 season.

50th Year

Fifty years have passed at Warren, and looking back one can discover many factors aiding in its development.

Warren High School was organized in 1924. The first student body, which consisted of grades seven through twelve, had an enrollment of 267. Three horse-drawn buses were responsible for the transportation of students to and from school.

In 1926 the name "Warriors" replaced "Owls" in a contest sponsored by the INDIANAPOLIS NEWS. Later the same year, gold and orange were selected for school colors.

Warren received the first class commission in 1933 and won the coveted honor of being awarded membership in the North Central Association.

The Owl Staff received their "Roost" from Mr. C. E. Eash in 1944. 1949 saw the publication of the twenty-fifth anniversary edition of the WIGWAM.

In September of 1952 the football field had a new look. For the first time at Warren the marching band, consisting of 48 members and 5 majorettes, performed at half time.

September 6, 1960, marks the first time classes were held at the new Warren Central. The school was designed for about 2,000 students with special oversized areas to accommodate expansion.

The FCC approved the application of Warren Central for a radio station in 1970. WEDM was decided as the call letters.

"RAH RAH FOR Warren" is being displayed by these 1953 students. School spirit and team loyalty have always been important at Warren.

New Location for

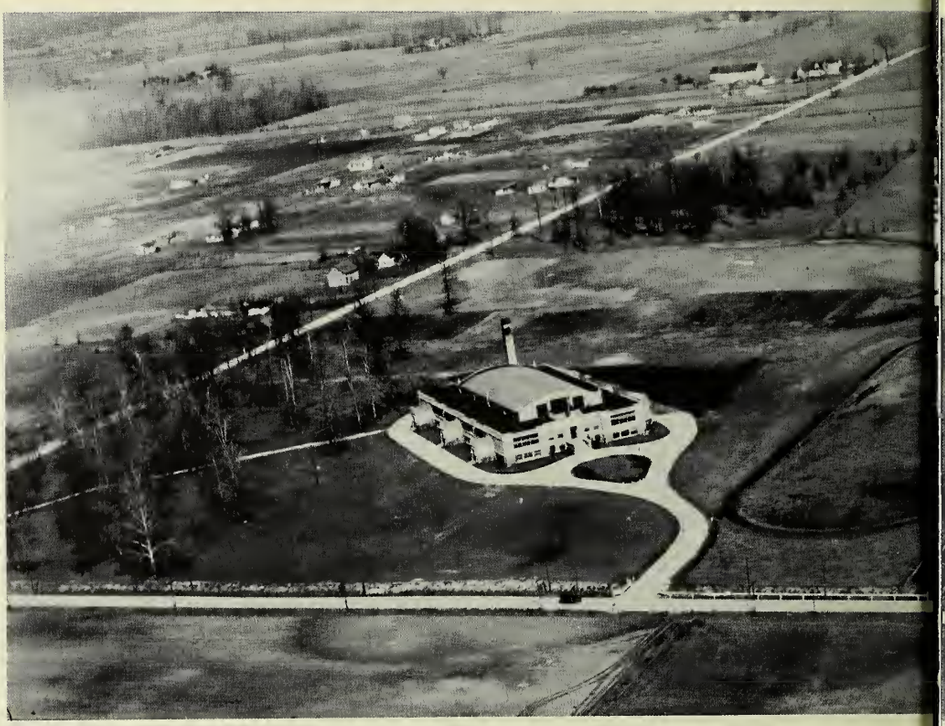
In 1924-25 the first Warren Central High School was born, with the consolidation of Cumberland and Shadeland High Schools. The official dedication took place on April 18, 1925, when Warren formally took over the responsibility of providing quality education. At this dedication Warren was known as the largest rural vocational agricultural high school in Indiana.

Warren's history has always been one of constant expansion. In 1935 Charles Walker, trustee, and C. E. Eash, principal, planned the first addition to Warren. The new rooms were ready for classes in 1936. The science laboratories were completely renovated and were reportedly the finest in Marion County.

The year 1958 brought still more need for expansion at Warren. Twelve new classrooms, a kitchen, and a cafeteria were added, greatly increasing Warren's size. Also, a new administration building went up across the drive from the main building.

Again in 1960 expansion was a key word in Warren's history. Instead of adding on to the old structure, Warren was moved to the site it stands at today. The school included a new football stadium, outdoor athletics facility building, track, baseball and softball diamonds, four tennis courts, four outdoor basketball courts, and a maintenance and supply building.

The fire in the science hall in February of 1965 led to difficulties in the reopening of school the following year. Classes were held in such places as the faculty lounge and audio visual room.



THIS IS WARREN Central as the students of 1925 saw it. The building construction was completed during the winter of 1924 and by January it was ready to open its doors.

REALIZING THE NEED for expansion, school officials planned the first addition to the original structure in 1935. Pictured is the school completed in 1936.

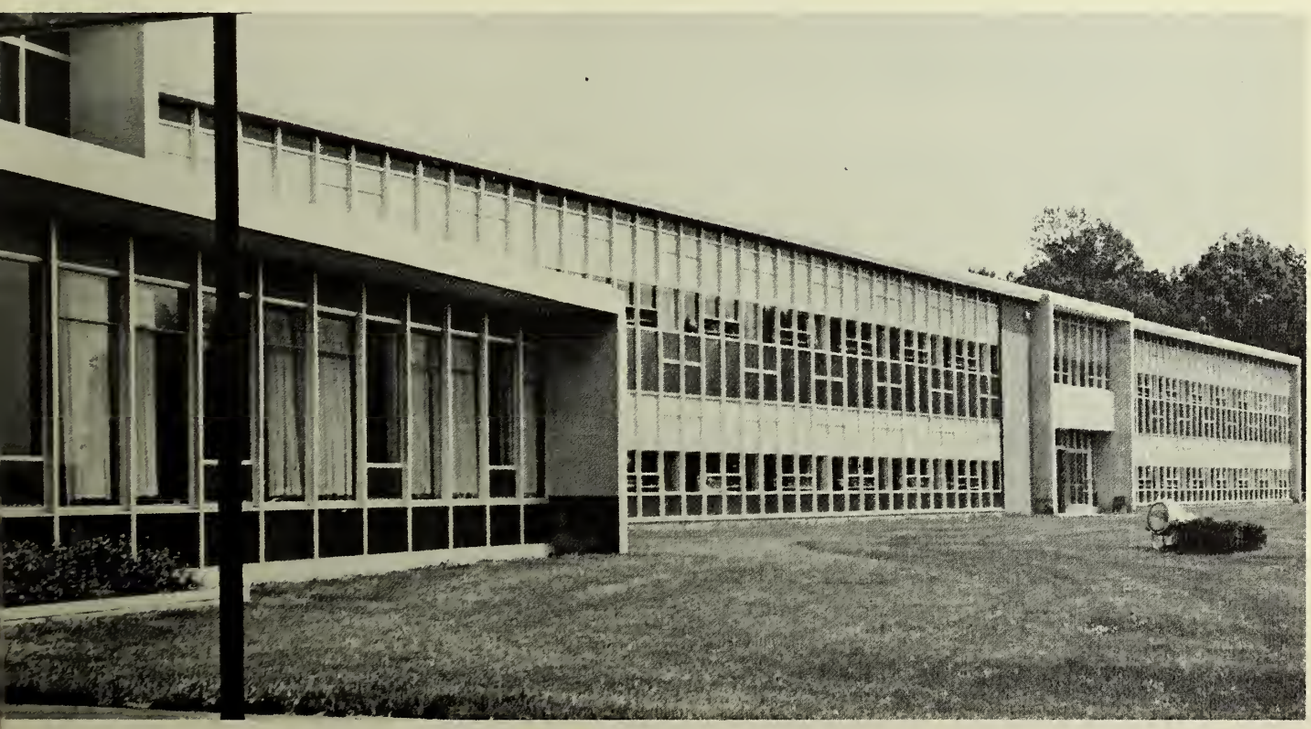
IN 1958 WARREN Central again experienced expansion. The new addition was completed by the second semester of the 1959 school year.



PICTURED IS HOW this year's students will remember Warren. The building was designed for 2,000 students with special areas to accommodate expansion.

50 Years Repre

For fifty years many fads and fashions have ruled the halls of Warren. Many styles have remained popular while still others seemed to have faded away. From the flat-tops to side-burns for the boys and from the Twiggy-look to the present day shag for the girls, hair has always played an important part of one's fashion awareness. Blazers and sweater vests have been popular for a long time, while the crew-neck and Como sweaters have disappeared. Long gone are the once stylish high heels, bobby socks, and pegged pants. From the long full skirts of the fifties, through the micro-mini, to the present day styles, girls' skirt lengths have changed drastically. Today's fashion scene places more emphasis on casual comfortable clothes as compared to the more formal styles of past years.

1955 WAS A rough year for oysters because rope pearls became the leading accessory. The longer the pearls the more stylish they were. Although some were worn loose, most girls preferred to wear them knotted.

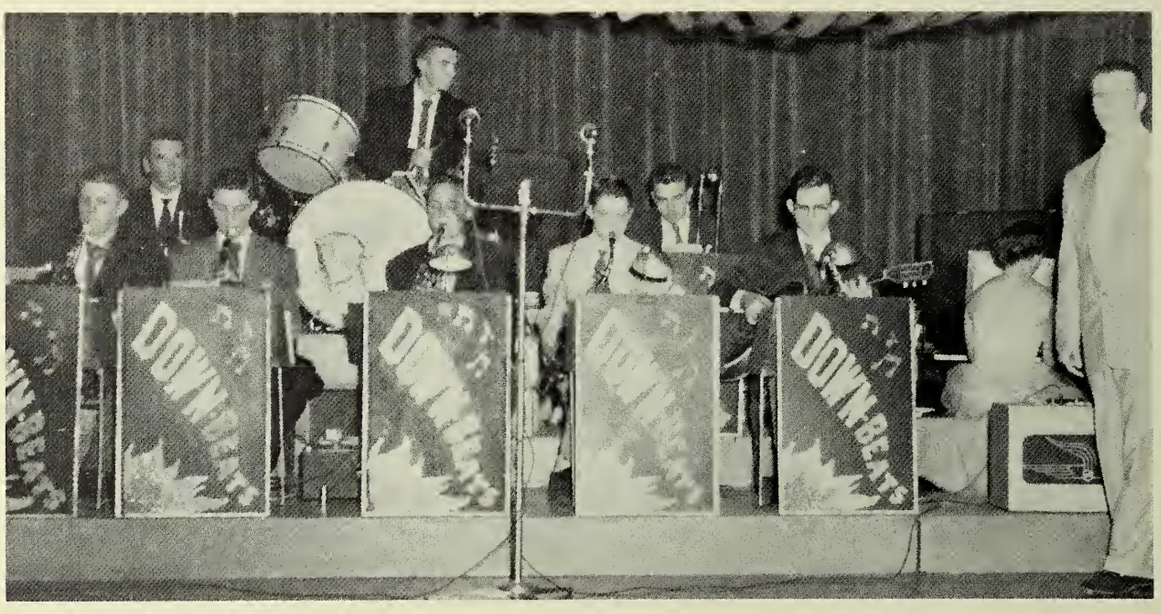
Jitterbug Once



THE DORSEYS DID not have anything on Warren in 1955. The popular Down Beats rocked their way into the hearts of the student body at the many after-school sock-hops.

COUPLES WHIRLED TO the rhythums of the Tech Rhythmaires at the Candy Cane Capers in the winter of 1954.

Popular at Warren

Dancing with the big bank sound of Tommy Dorsey or humming a popular tune by Frank Sinatra were once favorite teenage pastimes. Whether it was performing the jitterbug, bunny-hop, or twist at after school sock-hops or formal dancing at the proms, the fun was always the same. In the 40's Tommy Dorsey's band and Nat King Cole were popular recording artists. The fifties brought the Italians such as Dean Martin and Frank Sinatra as every girl's singing idol. Then came "king" Elvis Presley and the rock and roll age. The sixties had the new explosive sound of the British Beatles and their successors to the present day music scene.

ABC'S WERE TAUGHT in a new manner in 1955–by the "ABC Boogie." All the pop singers hit the jack-pot on the juke-box at the sock-hops.

YOU PUT YOUR left foot out sings the record as these students do the bunny-hop at an after school sock-hop.

Watt is 72 State

On January 9, 1925 before an overflowing crowd, the Warren basketball team played their very first game. The game proved to be a Warren victory over Valley Mills with a score of 29 to 21. Besides the first basketball game, January 9, 1925 marked the beginning of Warren's sports history.

Walter Mowrey led his basketball teams to two county championships in 1925 and 1927. It was not until 1953 that Warren won another county championship under coach Carl Braden. Another proud year in Warren basketball was 1964. Senior guard Doug Wininger hit 48 straight free throws breaking the IHSSA and the NCAA free throw records.

A football field was begun in 1935, however it was not until September 24, 1937, that Tom Stirling coached his team to victory over Ben Davis. In 1944, 1945, and 1952 Warren boasted county crowns under the coaching of Mr. Vaughn Wood.

Wrestling was begun in 1957 under the guidance of Vaughn Wood. Andy Watt, a 1972 senior, became the first Warrior to become a state wrestling champ. Andy won this event by being the only wrestler to pin all three opponents in the state meet.

COACH VAUGHN WOOD is carried off the field to a bath in the showers, after his football team won the 1953 county championship with an undefeated season.

GIRLS, TOO, WERE interested in sports. Pictured is the 1945 Senior Girls' Athletic Association organized by Ruth Shimer.

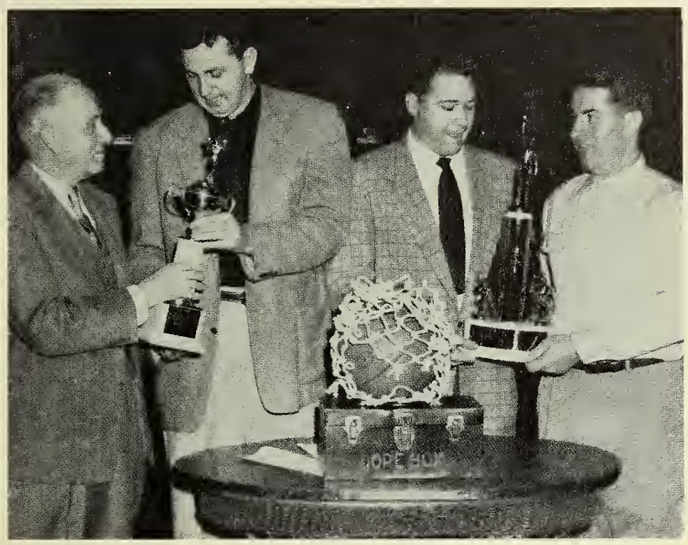
LEADING CHEERS FOR the 1950 athletic teams were Helen Armstrong, Jim Wilson, and Jean Ashley. These "yell" leaders helped to promote school spirit.



AFTER 27 YEARS of trying, the county championship was captured in 1954. The Dope Box, ball, and net were proudly displayed by Mr. C. E. Eash, principal; Mr. Carl Braden, head coach; Mr. Robert Meyer, reserve coach; and Mr. Vaughn Wood, athletic director.

SKIPPING SCHOOL IS an art among some students. Beautiful fishing spots are not as plentiful as they were 50 years ago. Buildings and roads have become more important to mankind.

YEARS AGO STUDENTS were not as fortunate. Many of them walked to school in all types of weather. Now they just take a few steps and are whisked away.

JEANS AND SWEATSHIRTS are still popular as they were years ago. So are some of the antics students come up with.

There we were. The Prohibition Era, the Great Depression, the War, the Rock and Roll and Sockhop phase. And suddenly they are upon us again. A reverting to the dress, music, and other symbols of those time periods. Although our lives were never affected directly by those times, we are swept up to some degree by their resurrections. Why, then, when all eyes are to the future, are we suddenly looking back? Evidently, in the past lies security, for its picture is not nearly so bleak or forbidding as the times which seem to lie ahead. Yet still, we plan for the future, our futures. This, then, is our life, continually looking backward and then looking ahead, learning from the previous and applying this knowledge to the forthcoming, all the while steadily moving ahead.

BANDS OF THE 20's. Bands of the 70's. Though there are differences, the art of music shows through both.

PULL! PULL! THE traditional tug of war holds amusement for all who dare play.

THE ONCE NEW becomes the old. Eventually society creeps in with newfangled gadgets. With time the modern will become antique again. Thus another lap is made round the circle.

WALKING STILL? IN this modern age? Bells ring. Students jump. Two seconds before it rings again they all flock into class. A timeless miracle.

We live on a moving line between past and future. That line is our lifeline.

George A. Buttrick

TIME PASSES, STYLES alter, people vary but dating stays the same. Couples and bonfires are as traditional as love.

LIFESTYLES

Youth an opportunity for experimentation before settling down to the contributions we all make in our lifetimes. While searching for direction our lifestyles revolve around school sports events, performing arts concerts, sometimes after-school jobs, and our immediate occupations as students. All our youthful activities add links to the chains that come the past and the future.

Loss of lights leaves King in darkness

Every musical has embarrassing moments while it is being presented, Camelot was no exception. One of the sets broke when it was to go on stage next; the dog Horrid stole the show; and King Arthur was left singing in the dark several times when the lights went off too soon.

Camelot was the musical chosen for the 1973 production. Mr. Tom Feit, head of the drama department, felt that he had the right personalities for the parts. Also the orchestra was ripe for a show of this character. Approximately 70 members were in the cast; nine main characters, 12 subordinate, and 50 were in the chorus.

The drama department was faced with a few problems in putting on Camelot. One problem was creating the right costumes to fit the period. Another problem was designing the set to provide an efficient and free flowing action from scene to scene.

Despite the problems and mistakes, the production of Camelot was successful, both financially and artistically.

Talents create Follies

Boxing matches, dancing, singing and comedy skits were only a few of the wide variety of acts performed at the 1973 W. C. Follies. The Student Council presented the annual Follies and all of the work was done by the students themselves.

Each act was auditioned before co-coordinators Nancy Lamb and Wendy White who selected the best and most unusual routines.

The group Ooze, the last to perform, received a standing ovation as did Bart Ping for his singing of the song "Aubrey." WEDM sponsored a yoyo contest. The finalists displayed their yo-yoing talents before the audience. The overwhelming applause of the audience proved Dave Harwell to be king of the yo-yoers.

Dethrones North Central state champs

Coach Jerry Stauffer remarked, "Undoubtedly the finest and most accomplished track team in the history of Warren Central High School."

To back this statement up the cindermen dethroned defending Marion County champs North Central. The first County championship won in twelve years. For the second straight year they have won the Carmel Invit. CSAC championship, Franklin Relays, and the Arlington Invit. The WC trackmen also placed fourth in the Hoosier Relay. The 1973 track team finished the season with a six win and two loss record in dual meet competition.

Then the sectional came with WC looking for their first sectional championship in the school history. They did it by dethroning sectional and state champs North Central. Warren had four sectional champs, Roy Benge, mile run; Bruce Kreiger, high and low hurdles; and Joe King, two mile. Warren qualified five for the state meet with Roy Benge being the third fastest mile runner in the state. Depth proves to be the answer to all the victories and upsets the cindermen accomplished.

Baseball lettermen return to play

The varsity baseball team ended a successful season of 17-6 with a heartbreaking 1-0 loss against Marshall. Coach Don Foreman has to smile when he thinks of all the returning lettermen. The Warriors will have all the starting pitchers back for next year and all of an undefeated reserve team.

They blitzed Beech Grove in the first County Tourney game but fell behind 3-0 in the semi-finals against Lawrence. Bruce Wessling lead off the fifth inning with a home run. John Jefferson followed with another homer and Jay Beranek follows this with a third consecutive homer. This was just one big highlight of a very exciting season.

Junior-varsity completed an undefeated 15-0 season by trouncing Manual 9-2. Typical of the 15 victories were timely hits, clutchfielding and strong pitching. Lead by Coaches Bill Porter and John Orr the J.V. was only challenged by one defeat. Arlington led the Warriors by going into the last inning. They had not gotten a single hit the whole game but came to life with five runs and pulled out the victory. Players enjoying successful seasons at the plate included Randy Blankinship, Rick Mathews and Jeff Huffman.

Golf team places 7th in sectionals

The golf team made it to the sectionals and came in seventh place. Coach Jerry Oliver said, "The team has put out much effort and deserves credit for their accomplishments last spring."

Coach Oliver said he believed that it was a good season considering that many of the students playing for other high schools were experienced and some had even had lessons from semi-pros. Coach Oliver went on to say, "Indianapolis is a heck of an area for golf anyway and you need to be close to par to be even a contender in the sectionals. Our main problem was high scores," Coach Oliver stated jokingly.

The two best golfers in Coach Oliver's opinion were Mike Unger and Dave Novotny, who were constantly trading off the spot of best Warren golfer of the meet.

"The team that was hardest defeating was definitely Lawrence," said Oliver. Warren upset Lawrence 200-202. Some other memorable meets were Warren's 200 over Howe's 202, Warren's 217 over Marshall's 219 and a disappointment with Warren 100 and Cathedral winning with 98. Warren smashed Scecina 194 to 273.

Races prove to be easy way out

To get out of school early, the senior bike race became a big event. Fourteen teams and one faculty team competed against each other, but the winning team was not decided for three days by the speech and debate sponsors.

Another race which kept many students out of school was the 500 Mile Race. Each day as the race was postponed, the absence lists grew longer. Raining in the morning, many students came to school and were stuck there the day the race was finally run.

Money, who needs it? Everyone seems to. Many students, therefore keep part-time jobs to suppliment their weekly income. Not only is a job a good way of getting that much needed money, it teaches a student to be responsible and gives him experience in the working market. To apply for a good job after graduation, experience of some kind is nearly always required. A job also provides an easy way out of the house and away from those nagging parents.

Along with the benefits of a job are also some drawbacks. Many times a student will have to work when something else is going on that he would much rather be doing, such as going to a football or basketball game. Homework presents another problem to the worker. Quite often a student has to work too late at night and is too tired to get all of his homework done for the next day. Another drawback to a job is the problem of employers. Very rarely does one have an understanding, compassionate boss.

School opens without mishap

Warren Central had a "smooth opening" this year according to assistant principal Mr. Clifford Gates. All available space in the school was used with 2,444 students and 129 teachers. Five homerooms were in the cafeteria compared with the two homerooms there the previous year. One of the major problems at the beginning of every school year is the large number of schedule changes. However despite the increase in students, there was no large increase in schedule changes at the beginning of this year.

Back-to-school night, one of the three P.T.A. meetings this year, was "very successful" stated Mr. Gates. Attending were 500 to 600 parents, who went through their teenagers' schedules after the business meeting. Student guides directed lost parents to their destinations. Mr. Gates stated that the event was "a positive thing since such a great number of parents were so interested. It's a good number compared to the previous years."

Floats color festivities

Like Cleopatra, the queen candidates for Homecoming 1973 were carried by lettermen onto the field in sedan chairs to face on overflow crowd. Floats were man-powered instead of car-powered because there were no cars allowed on the new all-weather track.

Balloons were supposed to be released but the helium did not arrive in time. Instead, they were thrown off the top of the stands. Quill and Scroll sold a record number of mums the week before while the band perfected their special halftime show.

For the second annual bonfire the night before the game, the rock group, Genesis, entertained approximately 500 students between the rain showers. Classes contributed the wood to the pile behind the school the week before the event.

WEDM changes

The WEDM staff, a select group of predominantly juniors and seniors, are at the controls daily, operating their student-run radio station. A staff position is the reward following many long hard hours of work and study. One major new undertaking this year was the Trog Show, in which elementary school children read poems, plays, and discussed things going on at their school.

For the first time in its history, the fourth annual junior-senior girls football game was won by the juniors, 20-12. Each team had been practicing for about a month. Approximately 20 girls played on the junior team, coached by Bob Pandoli, Matt Schreiber, and Mitch Smock. Doug Cooke, Hank Dragoo, Jim Elkins and Steve Spaethe coached 30 girls on the senior team. The playing was described by one junior coach as rough, with a few injuries. However, one of the senior coaches related that all of the girls seemed very enthusiastic about the competition between teams.

Constantly changing, the art gallery is a place for students to exhibit work and to see the work of other students. Although the work displayed is primarily that of art students, any student may exhibit something.

The art gallery was built four years ago, but still is not completely finished. All of the lighting originally planned has not yet been installed.

Art teacher Mr. Clyde Foster stated that the gallery belonged to the students and was someplace where they could express their feelings in the media of art. He explained, "Art students don't sing or dance. The gallery is a way for them to show their talents."

"Black Jack" was the name of the featured band at the first sock hop in three years. The dance, also titled Black Jack, was after Warren's defeat of Howe, the first home basketball game of the season. Sponsored by the Teens Against Cancer Club, Black Jack was a "success", according to one club sponsor Miss Brenda Horn, with the proceeds donated to the American Cancer Society. Miss Horn was surprised it was such a big success with 400 to 500 people attending because sock hops in the past have not been so successful, she recalled. She concluded that "the responses and comments about Black Jack were good. The students really enjoyed it."

Six and one-half gallons of different flavors of ice cream with various toppings were served in a laundry basket. The plans for next year's ice cream scream include a 16 foot long banana split.

The marching band had a "truly unique" season this year, according to director Mr. James Chandler. In addition to putting on the half time shows at home football games, the band participated in several contests, won a first division rating and took the sweepstakes award in their classification at the Southport band competition. The band also marched in the Indianapolis Veterans' Day Parade and performed at the 500 Festival Parade.

Orchestra students receive rare honor

THE MADRIGALS, THE best singing group, sing "Madrigal Tourolouro Louro" at the Christmas program.

ALL OF THE Warren Central music choirs combine to form a Christmas tree at the 1973 Christmas concert.

Orchestra students received an opportunity that few high school students will ever receive. They were able to perform in the new Musical Arts Center at Indiana University which is considered one of the finest concert halls in the world. The orchestra also had the distinction of being invited by Butler University to play at Clowes Hall for the fifth consecutive year.

According to Mr. Bruce Fowler, who is in charge of the orchestra, Warren Central "had the most well balanced string section we have ever had. We have also had some fine soloists in the brass, woodwind, and percussion sections in the orchestra."

The music groups perform at different places throughout the city and occasionally honor the school with a performance.

SENIOR LINDA HOLTZ remains poised while doing the splits on the balance beam.

As in boys gymnastics, the girls must work hard to perfect routines for floor exercises, uneven bars, and vaulting. Mrs. Jean Reed, the gymnastics coach, said gymnastics is a special sport and it takes a lot of effort on the girls part.

Practices involve a simple exercise period to get loosened up. After warm-ups, the girls practice their routines and add new, more difficult stunts to their present routine.

For such a small team, seven girls, they have really progressed and they all contributed to a successful season of three wins and two losses.

Diane Payne, junior, won the state meet in the floor exercise. She also placed second in the balance beam, uneven bars and all-around and third in vaulting. Linda Holtz, senior, was third in the balance beam and fourth all-around.

Some students find it necessary to participate in sports outside from those offered at school, whether in competition, learning or just fun. The winter season with its snow and ice brings the long lasting sport of ice skating and the ever growing snow skiing. Students find these ways to entertain themselves outside of school.

During the winter swimming and basketball, the student can participate regularly at the local club.

Spring, is the time for kites, long bike rides, and hiking, if not drenched by the spring rains.

Then comes the students favorite season, summer. The innumerable activities of summer can keep a student busy for hours at a time. Tennis, swimming, skiing, and just enjoying that too short vacation.

Students can drench themselves with various lessons and activities all year round outside of school organized sports and activities.

JUNIOR MIKE PATTERSON'S interests are of karate.

The Junior Varsity football team finished the season with a 5 win, 5 loss record. It turned out to be a "real good" season for the two rookie coaches, Mr. Gene Nesbit and Mr. Rick Gray. Coach Nesbit explained, "We were small and started off quickly, but the other teams caught up with us after a while." The former Woodview mentor continued, "We were a very spirited team."

Coach Gray echoed Mr. Nesbit's words and added, "The experience gained this year will help next year because we ran the same offense and defense as the varsity did."

The team was very well balanced with many contributing scores ranging from 32 to 0 in favor of the Warriors to 27-6 against the Warriors.

THIS IS ONE of many helmets clutched in excitement and defeat for those on the sidelines.

One statement, by first year head coach, Jerry Stauffer, sums up the varsity football season. He stated, "I enjoyed my first year as head coach more than I thought I would. We played a lot of underclassmen, enjoyed many exciting times and shared defeats. Out of these we all feel we can be contenders."

All county players, seniors, Bruce Wessling, Joe Sharp, and Jim Jackson were leaders on both offense and defense this season. Brian Oertle was the leading ground gainer on offense while Bruce Wessling was leading the Warriors as well as the county in tackling.

After losing two heartbreakers to eventual state A.A. champ Greenfield and Scecina the Warriors won exciting victories at Ben Davis, Carmel, Southport and Franklin.

If it was one thing this football team didn't lack, it was exciting moments. Against Carmel the Warriors pulled out a last minute victory on a 34 yard touchdown pass to Greg Ransom from senior quarterback John Harmas. The Homecoming victory over Franklin was highlighted by two long runs of 76 and 79 yards by juniors Brian Oertel and J. B. Pirtle.

With one overtime game and many decided by one point or just one touchdown, the Warriors really gave the fans their money's worth appraised Coach Stauffer.

Volleying its way, the tennis team succeeded with fifth place in the sectionals. The surprising matches were at County, Sectionals and CSAC where they placed fourth, fifth, and sixth in succession. Coach Frank DeBruicker commented that "this year's team was successful in preparing young men for experience next year. We will have many exciting juniors returning to help us. Out best player will probably be Steve Ferguson."

This year's outstanding player was senior Terry Gioe. He completed with a 150 to 101 record.

One of the problems this year was little backing by the student body. Few people came out to see the team play when at other matches many people came.

Coach DeBruicker stated that the tennis team will be improving because they have started a tennis program at the junior highs. He added that the tennis team would be just like the gymnastics team. Starting as a sophomore it is pretty late to learn and train the body for competition. The coach believes that the summer tennis program will help immensely the teams in the future.

Harriers win third consecutive CSAC

Cross Countymen, popularly known as harriers, are finally coming into their own. This sport appears to have become Warrens most successful effort in the field of sports these past few years. This year the varsity shipped 103 teams while losing to only 13. They also won their third consecutive SAC championship, their second county in as many years, their third straight sectional, and finished seventh in the state.

Starring for the varsity were juniors Wayne Machala, Larry Kjeldsen, and seniors Chris Jackson, Steve Lenahan, and Jon Lutton.

Machala, Lutton, Lenahan, and Jackson also known as the "iron four", had one of the finest meets in the history of Warren early this year at the Ben Davis Invitational. In this meet all four topped the meet record of 12:45.

Wayne Machala had the best time of the year with a 12:26. Times for the other four were Steve Lenahan 12:32, Chris Jackson 12:36, Jon Lutton 12:38, and Larry Kjeldsen 12:46.

Mr. Richard Conway, their coach and math teacher has very high expectations for next year's team.

The reason for this is a fine reserve finish of 47 and 7 with a conference first. Mr. Conway is also looking forward to the return of four lettermen, Machala, Kjeldsen, Joe Hudson, and Dan Brown. Three others will join these four in competing to improve the already impressive record.

The boys looking to fill these positions are reserve stars Frank Manthey, Neil Wagoner, Paul Fox, Brian Bauer, Jeff Jackson, Tom Burns, and Mark Richardson.

If worried by the loss of three seniors, do not be. Mr. Conway lost six of last year's seven on the varsity and still managed to put together a winning season. He has taken Warren's teams to the state for three years finishing sixth, third, and this year's seventh.

Slam! The girls volleyball team scores another point in striving for another successful season. Led by Coach Roseland White, the teams finished with a 7-win 4-loss record. The girls proved to many that they can have competitive and winning teams.

Mrs. White said that during the regular season the girls played pretty well, but it was during the CSAC playoffs when they really came into their own. The enthusiasm and team spirit the girls displayed brought home a second place trophy from the county and a third in the sectional.

"The great thing about volleyball," Coach White said, "is that there is no individual honors to be won. The girls this year realized that, and really played well. They realized to win in volleyball you've got to help each other and give that compliment on a good play.

'Crucible' cast covers seven page omission

Drama department members put on two completely different plays this year, "The Crucible" and "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown." "The Crucible," according to Mr. Tom Feit, was a "very heavy, sophisticated drama" compared to "Charlie Brown" which was described by him as being "a light, comic, bit of fluff."

Both plays came off exceptionally well, Mr. Feit commented. Students in "The Crucible" had very difficult parts to play, in that they had an atmosphere of tension to keep going. The only mishap of the play was when Howard Foster skipped seven pages of the script, including the entrance and exits of several characters. However, the rest of the cast covered it up, and the play continued with the error practically unnoticed.

Mr. Feit believed that he could not have chosen any people better than the six he did to fill the parts of the characters in "Charlie Brown." Despite a postponement of nearly a month because of heavy snows, the production came off very well. The delay had no effect on the acting with only one rehearsal necessary during the extra time.

LUCY, PLAYED BY senior Jan Murphy, tells Schroeder, played by senior Howard Foster, how much she likes him.

At the sounding of the trumpets, the tenth annual Tudor Madrigal Dinner began with the traditional procession through the halls. Approximately 220 attended the dinner and participated in the ceremonies. Steve Houston and Margo Buchanan were crowned King and Queen of the dinner while Campbell McLaren was dubbed Lord of Misrule or Master of Ceremonies. During the evening, entertainment was provided by a string quartet and the school's different singing groups.

The only mishap during the entire evening was a very slight one. A fuse blew out, leaving the cafeteria in darkness. Fortunately, candles were being used on the tables and the loss of lights added to the Medieval atomsphere. The dinner was very successful according to Miss Sandy Dragoo, who was in charge of the entire production.

Snowfall makes season unique

The mere fact that is snowed made the 1973 Christmas season different from past ones. Parties had to be cancelled, plays postponed, and tests delayed. But the thing that really broke the students hearts was the closing of school two days early for vacation. Along with the snow came the expected hazzards and fun. Streets were slick and slushy, cars were stalling and sliding off roads, and disgruntled drivers cursed the snow. However, while cars were sliding dangerously on the streets, kids were sliding playfully down snow-covered hills, making snowmen, having snowball fights, and enjoying the snow.

The large Christmas tree that decorated the foyer will also make this Christmas season stand out from past and future ones. It will be the last live one that Warren Central will have because of a new fire ruling. Classrooms which were also decorated with live Christmas trees were affected by this ruling.

DUE TO THE numerous snowfalls, a snowman was a common sight during the Christmas holidays.

THIS YEAR'S CHRISTMAS tree in the foyer is to be the last live tree for Warren Central.

Energy crisis dims lighting at Christmas

The sudden snowfall put an emergency halt on everyone's plans the last two days before Christmas vacation. With the fifteen inches of snow were the millions of inoperable cars and miles of non-explorable roads. The pre-Christmas parties became post-Christmas parties, bringing the Christmas spirit into the new year.

Along with the snow came the full blow of the energy crisis. At the government's request, Americans turned down their thermostats several degrees. People were wearing heavier clothing and the sweater business boomed.

The energy crisis even had an impact on the world's largest Christmas tree, the illuminated Circle. This year, Indianapolis used less electricity in illuminating the tree. The government asked Americans across the country to consider the energy shortage when decorating their homes. As a result, Indianapolis was not as brightly illuminated as in Christmases past. However, that did not matter, for Hoosiers learned that the spirit of Christmas is within the soul.

INDIANAPOLIS' MONUMENT CIRCLE, a traditional sign of the city's Christmas spirit, shines as one of the world's tallest Christmas trees.

Speech, debate teams gain victories

A REPRESENTATIVE OF Lawrence Central presents Tom Hawker with a ribbon, the reward for many hard hours of work.

The debate team this year had a "both satisfying and frustrating season," according to Mr. Ward, sponsor. The satisfaction came in the way of a sixth placing by Rick Schreiber and Gerry Dail in the state tournament. The frustration, however, as Mr. Ward put it, was that "the kids and I both knew we could have done a little better." On the whole, the season, lasting from October to February, was successful.

This year's speech team was one of the best that Warren has ever had. The team was comprised of about sixty students with the majority being seniors. Trophies were brought home from almost every meet. A first place trophy was won for the third consecutive year at the Rossville meet. This was the first time that this had ever happened.

Sponsor of the speech team, Mrs. Susie Pearson said that "the most outstanding quality that the students on the speech team have is not just their ability to win trophies and ribbons, but rather their enthusiam and thoughtfulness. They are exceptionally considerate and creative individuals.

With the girls taking to the water for the fifth straight year it was instantly apparent that they were going to give everyone something to talk about. Although placing second in CSAC the girls battled their way back to a respectable 7-1 record.

Mrs. Barbara Huston, the swimming team coach, looks back at the girls first and only meet five years ago and at their first and only defeat that year in the hands of a very able Deaf School today a laugh. Since then vast improvements have been made in the team, especially in this years team as Mrs. Huston points out. "I feel we have more team depth than in past years, which is fortunate since the girls rules have been changed to allow them to swim in only three events instead of four."

Part of this team depth that Mrs. Huston talked about is illustrated in Julie Brown, Debbie Batchelder, Mary Ellen Daugherty, Cindy Hershy, and Cindy Hensley, Susan Rees, and Sandy Simpson, all of whom capably swim in more than one event.

Between mid-November and late March, obstacles are bound to appear on a team, with the girls swim team being no exception. It appeared in February that the team was heading for a major let down when sickness hit members of the team. However, the girls overcame that hurdle with a close win over Marion and Benton Central in a three way meet.

Records fell this year with Barbara Pesut putting her name on the board with a time of 2:28.0 in the 200 yd. freestyle in the three-way meet. New records were also set by Julie Brown in the 100 yd. freestyle, Cindy Hensley in the 100 yd. freestyle and Eileen Gawrys in the 50 yd. breast stroke.

Warriorettes combat problems

DURING A SUCCESSFUL basketball season, the girls run down the court trying to stop a score.

THE REFEREE SLIPS away as the jumping centers for Warren and their opponents go up to take the tip.

Off to a bad start at the beginning of the season, the girl's basketball team has come on strong in the past few games. Losing the first three games, the girls have put together a four game winning streak by beating Decatur Central, 47-32; Brownsburg, 42-30; Beech Grove, 38-35; and Lawrence, 56-27.

Cindy Sharp, junior, was high scorer for the Warriorettes in the first seven games. Lack of Marsha Butler, with her sprained ankle hurt the team.

Pike played a good game Feb. 25, but Warren's defense of stealing the ball hurt their opponents. The press and fast-break was quite effective for them and thanks to Mr. Steve Walker, the team had patterns for the games and strenuous workouts. Free throws improved greatly from 12 percent at the start to 40 percent.

According to Coach Beth Walker, the only weaknesses were their sizes compared to the other teams and their problems with fouling at the beginning of the season but they have combated that problem in the last few games.

Shotguns finish with perfect record

For guys who really like to play basketball, intramural basketball was the place to be. Wide participation and a competitive atmosphere made the 73-74 intramural basketball season a success. According to coach Alan Miedema there were about 150 boys making up teams with the usual weird names such as the "Drips," "Nostrils," and "Shotguns."

Every Monday, starting November 26, sophomores, juniors and seniors met in the gymnasium to test their skills at basketball trying to win the most games and most of all the league championship. Resting over Christmas vacation, the guys came out to win the rest of their games, preparing for the showdown to see which team was the best in each league.

Any boy who did not make any of the school basketball teams could participate. According to Mr. Miedema there was "plenty of competition." With a laugh, he said, "They were out to win every game as if they were championship games." Throughout the three leagues competition showed, as the senior champs, the Shotguns, raced through their schedule to an 8-0 perfect record by Feb. 11, the end of the season.

Depth takes team to state

Depth seemed to be the key to success in this year's boys swim team as several boys on the team fought to achieve state champion status.

Compiling an impressive 14-2 record for the season the swimmers never gave up during the start of practice Nov. 24, to the final meet Feb. 7. Taking a third place finish in the county meet, Mr. Con Keller's swimmers regained their pride to become one of the top ranked teams in the state. "As the entire season progressed we began getting better and better," Mr. Keller stated.

With a 104-68 win over a strong Richmond team in their final meet, the Warriors proved their strength. The next step was to prove it again in the sectionals, which they did by taking second place overall with 260 points behind Carmels 273.

The Warriors relay teams brought home seconds in the 400 yard freestyle relay and the 200 yard medley qualifying them for state. Mike Kelley also put in an outstanding performance individually capturing first in the 100 yard breaststroke with a new sectional record of 1;03,6 and second in the 200 yard individual medley. Other individual winners for Warren were Dave Ridgeway with a first in the 100 yard butterfly and Steve Spaethe with a strong second place in the 200 yard freestyle.

Before the sectionals Mr. Keller said the Warrior's strong point would be in the diving. Chris Gentry, Dave Huston and Mike Bunker projected his trust by capturing second, third and fourth places respectively in the one meter diving, qualifying them all for the state meet.

Mr. Keller sees the swim team getting stronger next year with good possibilities of being top ranked in the state, since junior, Mike Kelley took state.

Wrestling is a sport for any boy regardless of his size, body build, or weight. A high school wrestling team consists of thirteen different weight classes. These classes range from 98 pounds to unlimited heavy-weight.

Though the number of boys participating in the wrestling program varies, this past year 54 boys tried out to be on the squad. The boys challenge one another for a particular weight class. The individual that wins the challenge is varsity, the one who places second is junior varsity. A wrestler keeps his position as long as he wins in dual meets or tournaments. He can be challenged for weight class if he loses a dual meet.

The dual meet record for the 1973-74 year was 9 wins and 1 loss. This was the first dual meet loss in three years. Warren wrestlers are proud of the fact that they are the only school in Marion County that had won three consecutive wrestling titles, Warren Invitational, Marion County, and the Sectional.

Failure heightens desire for success

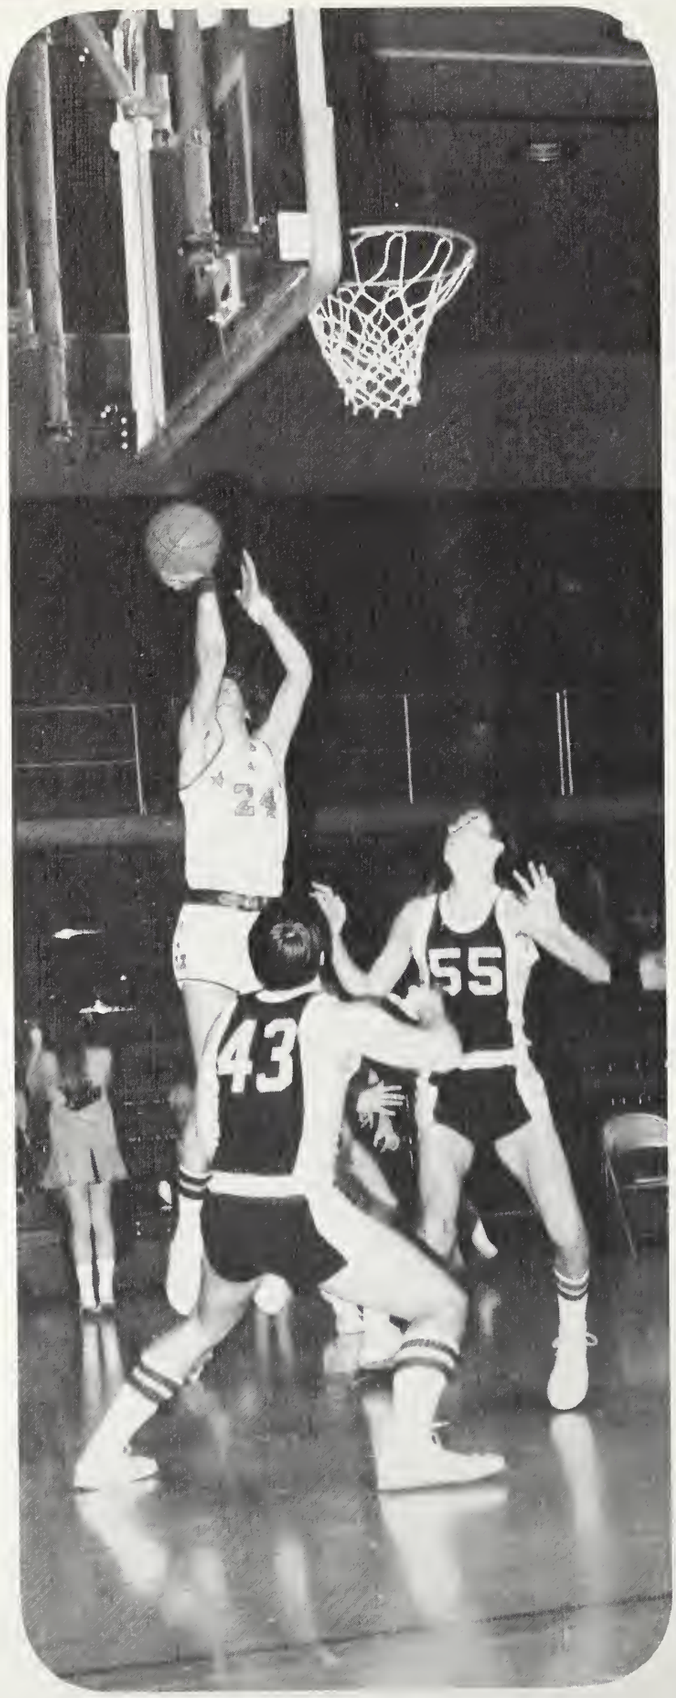
THE DECATUR HAWKS apply pressure against senior guard John Harmas as he throws the ball to the forward to begin the offensive pattern.

Demoralization of a team caused a losing season and losses that should not have been, according to Head Coach Jerry Oliver.

One of the reasons for this years lack of success was the number of sophomores on the team. Because of their lack of experience and their inconsistency, typical of sophomores says coach Oliver, other teams had a decided advantage. With as much varsity experience as they've had, this years sophomores, such as Curt Grelle and Tom Nichols will become juniors better able to cope with varsity play.

The Warriors also experienced problems in rebounding and defense. Mr. Oliver believes that letting the opponents get their own rebound and putting it back up to score has a negative affect on the defense.

Warren's best effort this year prior to the past game was at Washington High School. The Warriors lost the game 58-53, but only committed eight errors compared to an average of around 20-25 or so per game. In this game they also stayed closest to their game plan, part of which was sticking to a controlled offense and shutting off the Continental's big 6'10" center.



A HIGH FLOATING jumper by sophomore Dave Allen scores two points, and also helps lead the team to a decisive victory.

VARSITY COACH JERRY Oliver gives last minute instructions before second half action begins.

JIM BUCHANAN PROVES that speed and versatility is a key in the floor exercises.

Dedication forms skilled gymnasts

After-school, 15 dedicated students spent two and one-half hours each day under the direction of Mr. Rick Gray and Mr. Bob Hoffman practicing their stunts on such apparatus as the parallel bars, high bar, side horse, still rings and the trampoline.

These students made up this year's gymnastics team. At the beginning of the season they developed a routine concentrating on timing and precision. Practices consisted of a short stretching warm-up period and then brief strength warm-ups. After warming up, the gymnasts started throwing their routines, practicing their moves and working on new ones. As the gymnasts become more "seasoned" and experienced, practices tapered off toward the end of the season.

Mr. Gray said that gymnastics is highly individualized and more specialized of a sport than any other at Warren Central. He also said gymnastics involves a great amount of pure concentration and skill.

Coach Gray said gymnastics is not very popular at Warren, but its popularity is on the rise. The gymnasts are mostly underclassmen and by next year they should achieve the finesse and grace of a more seasoned gymnast.

Activities add to students' personalities

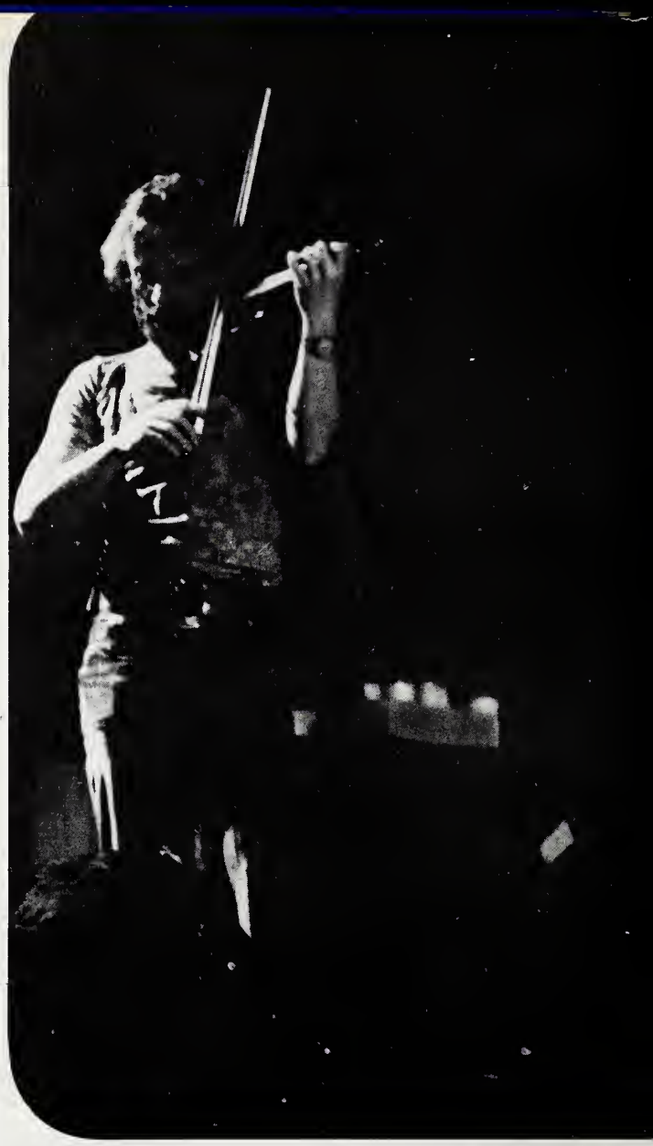
A school of many activities, Warren probably has one of the widest ranges of fields in all of Indiana's schools. All of these fields combine to help make graduates mature, responsible adults. It offers an activity for each individual that enters its doors. Of course a lot of sweat is involved, but students never fail to take time out to enjoy themselves.

Many organizations sponsor activities, however, that never receive much recognition. Some of these events include the Honor Society's Ping Pong Tournament, Spaghetti Supper, the Teens Against Cancer Club's sale of Candy-grams around Valentine's Day, and others. It is not that these events do not deserve publicity and recognition, because they do. Students worked hard to make these activities a success but there are too many events to cover them all when they do not involve the whole student body.

GETTING INTO HER game of ping-pong, senior, Sandy Russell prepares to hit the ball into her opponents court during the Honor Society contest.

WEDM STAFF MEMBERS John Dyson, Ronnie Collier, and John McKenzie call the action at a wrestling convocation while Brian Riggs intently looks on.

JOHN McLAUGHLIN OF the Mahavishnu's Orchestra is thought to be the greatest guitar player in the United States.



MEMBERS OF THE Mother of Invention who played at the Coliseum are Jean Luc-Ponty playing the fiddle, Bruce Fowler playing the trombone, and Ian Underwood playing the saxophone.

It was the "wouldn't it be great if . . . " concert of the year. Two of the most progressive, contemporary music bands, The Mahavishnu's Orchestra along with Frank Zappa and the Mothers of Invention here at the Coliseum.

The Mahavishnu's band was first. The purpose of his music is to reflect the soul, as has been the purpose of all great art. But Frank Zappa is a different story. His music speaks of the ridiculously obscene. Technically, Frank Zappa pioneered the fusions of contemporary classical music with popular intentions.

Other groups that came to Indianapolis and surrounding area this past year included Seals and Croft, Bob Dylan, The Carpenters, Sly and the Family Stone, Humble Pie, Rare Earth, and many others.

AFTER DAYS OF work in handicrafts class, this leather belt receives the finishing touches.

TO GET AWAY from the scene of the close-in classroom, students in Mr. Foster's art class move their equipment outside.

Art . . . any system of rules, principles that utilizes skilled accomplishment

Art classes have attracted more and more students each year. However, Warren's growing population had the biggest effect on the art department this year. When asked about this situation, Mr. Fish, head of the art department, replied, "There are so many new art students, we are growing out of our shows." As a direct result of this problem, many changes have occured in this area. The number of beginning art, handicrafts, and jewelry classes increased from three to five classes daily. Also, an extra teacher and one replacement teacher were hired. The fact that there are so many art classes had a great effect on the art gallery. It was always changing. When one teacher's classes were doing projects exceptionally interesting, that class's work appeared in the gallery. Thus, the display was a continuously rotating program. All phases of the art department constantly helped the students display their creativity.

Business . . . develops several skills toward future occupations

Peck, peck, pecking of typewriters sounded familiar while walking through the halls and these students were enrolled in business classes ranging from typing and general business to distributive education. General business courses served as background material while such courses as clerical practice and D.E. functioned as the finishing touches to a long study of business methods.

For those students interested in a general business program but not planning to specialize, courses of study were general business, consumer business education, salesmanship and marketing. Also typewriting, business mathematics, accounting, data processing, and business law were suggested for this program.

Typing was the course with the largest enrollment in this department. This was due to students not interested in a business program needing typing for practical purposes such as term papers.

According to Mr. Eldon McKenzie, department chairman, Warren's business department offered a very efficient program in training students for a business career. In fact, the program was so good that further training after graduation was not necessary for the student hoping for a business career."

SENIORS RICK HINTON and Mike Foster concentrate on adjusting a car battery. Both guys acquired their jobs in Sears' automotive repair through D.E.

RICK HINTON FINISHES changing the tire on a car. Skills such as these are acquired through on-the-job training.

Distributive Ed . . . on-the-job training toward career preparation

A final-stage functioning distributive education program was the highlight in the business department. The D.E. program got underway with Mr. Fred Myers in charge. D.E. is a combination of two types of education–high school and out of school experience.

Students started the program their junior year with one D.E. class each semester. When enrolling in the program the student had to have a career in mind. This was used in determining skills to be developed and job placement.

Senior D.E. students spent the morning in school in a basic program and the afternoon under the supervision of stores or businesses selected as training establishments. A minimum of 15 hours a week was required for the students to work, half of which had to be during school hours. They received pay and credit toward graduation.

D.E. was so successful that the business staff wants to create a similar program in terms of clerical practice. In this case, the student would be found a secretarial job. However, this program is still in the theory stage, according to Mr. Elton department chairman.

BEV HOGUE PRACTICES the warm up drills at the beginning of her business class.

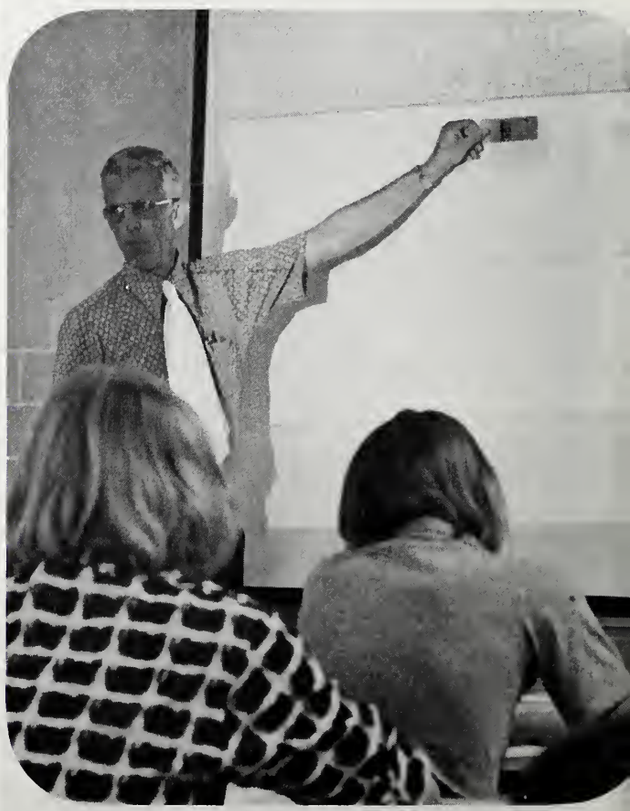
TIM ALTOM, SENIOR, cautiously types out information to appear on an IBM card. Data processing classes often use the IBM 029 card punch in the business center.

Drivers education, audio-visual, library . . . places to learn

The library and driver's education have something new this year. The library has a new copier for student and faculty use. The driver's ed course has a new price. The copier was bought to try to prevent torn pages from books and magazines. Because of rising inflation and the costs of cars, the price of the driver's ed course has gone up and stayed up from the price during the summer. Both places require harder concentration of study.

Also involved with the library is the A-V center, although on an individual basis. The A-V center is for student usage as well as classroom and faculty use. Mr. James Lurtey, head of the department, orders all equipment used from the township. The A-V center also provides equipment such as paper cutters, poster boards, and stencils for teachers. Without A-V there would not be movies, filmstrips, and other audio visual materials.

IN THE DRIVER'S education car the teacher has a rear view mirror and also brakes in case of emergencies. This extra provision assists the teacher in also observing the road behind.



MR. FRANK DEBRUICKER demonstrates a three point turn with classroom materials. Materials like these help students before driving in the car.

CHUCK ADKINS AND Mark Bray, sophomores, search for references using the card catalog. The card catalog provides resources for students.

STUDENTS HUNT FOR answers during library orientation. They are Andrea Beckett, Cathy Craig, Theresa McCarthy, and Sandy Allen, sophomores.

Medium . . . acting, speaking, reporting, exchanging ideas

IN 25 WORDS or less, Melanie Grafe, Pam Lohman, Gina Cherry, and Debbie Losie, perform examples of Reader's Theater, one of the many activities that students participate in during drama class.

Drama, speech, and journalism classes were the major sources of communication, or "medium" during the past year. They provided the acting, speaking, and reporting that was essential for the inter-school communication process. Beginning drama classes covered all areas of the theater by studying voice projection, movement, and gesture. As a semester exam these students were required to participate in a one-act play. Through presenting a full-length play in class, the advanced class studied all phases of play production. Speech classes took on an entirely new approach. According to Mrs. Susie Pearson, "Interpersonal communication, how to learn to really talk and listen to other people and know what they are saying, was the most exciting new area in speech." This class provided an opportunity for each student to discover and explore new interests. Both publications staffs doubled their size, Even Mrs. Marilyn Smith's journalism students provided some much needed assistance through such jobs as drawing rough layouts for yearbook pages. During the summer many staff members attended journalism workshops at Ball State University and Indiana University, to plan for the production of an improved newspaper and yearbook. The Owl had the most dramatic changes by converting from newspaper to news magazine.

ASSISTANT ACADEMICS EDITOR, Cindy Pavey, junior, takes a moment out from working on copy to have a laugh with other staff members.

ASSISTING ON THE yearbook, Ginny Merritt, senior, and editor of the Owl, applies much of her time and her talent to produce an enlarged and new style newspaper.

English . . . changing trends in required subject.

Changing trends throughout the nation in English curriculum appeared in the English classes with an elective program. This type, used in many other high schools, creates a more flexible and interesting course of which many students and teachers approve. The electives involved an integrated program of composition and literature, using two textbooks from the state adopted lists for 24 weeks for sophomores and juniors.

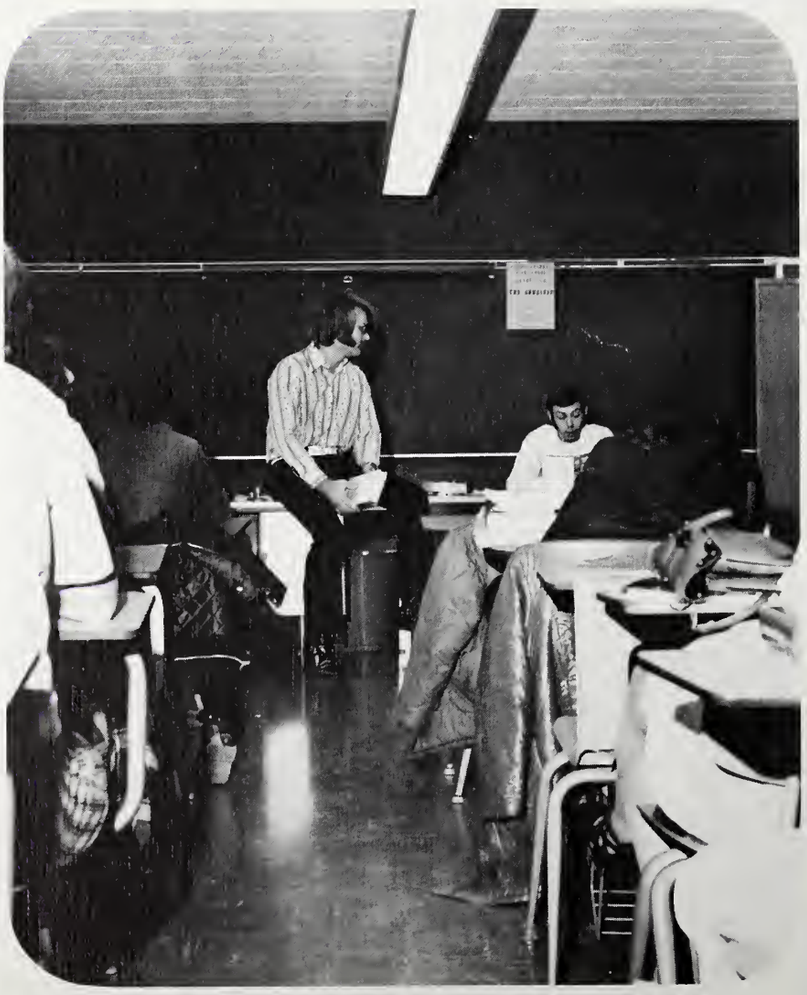
For the last twelve weeks of the year the student had his choice, depending upon the class period he had English, and the courses being taught. Senior English also involved elective courses, one in composition and one in literature, using state adopted lists and numerous paperbacks. Seniors were not presented with short electives this year.

During the 1974-1975 school year, all grades will be presented with semester electives in subjects offered that they are interested in.

English text books were placed on a rental system which will continue next year.

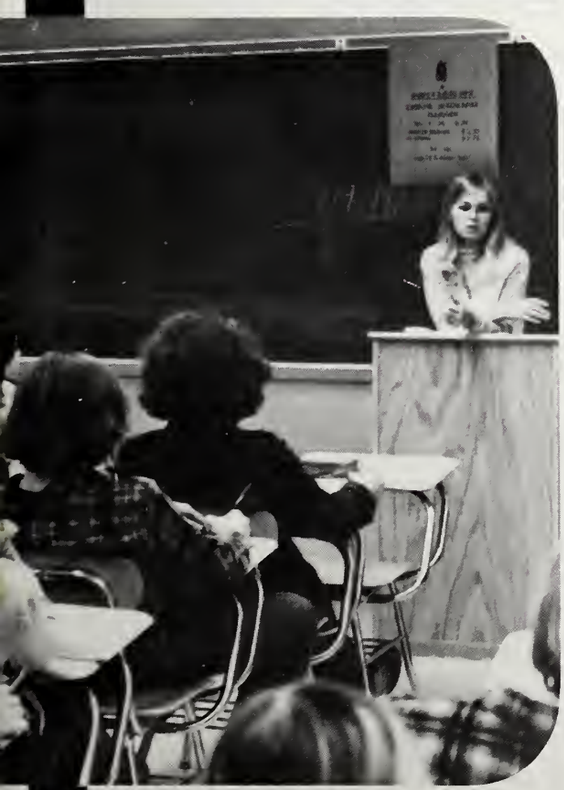
Other English courses outside of required courses are Biblical Literature and Creative Writing.

WANTING SOME SORT of change, Martha Staehle, senior, sits in a daze during her class.



MR. GREG McCLURE and Mr. Larry Muncie lecture the class on Edgar Allen Poe.

DISCUSSION OF CURRENTLY read books and the day's grammar lesson are part of Mrs. Sally Price's English class.



WILL IT EVER end? The everyday, routine, English class. Laurie Morris, sophomore, sometime wonders.

Home Economics . . . science of home management as of food, clothing, children

The increase in Warren's population had a dramatic effect on the Home Economics department this year. According to Mrs. Ida Richardson, department chairman, over 200 girls were turned down for enrollment because of lack of space and teachers. Because of this lack in facilities, the department had to be a little finicky in choosing students to participate. Good citizenship and good personality traits were important factors.

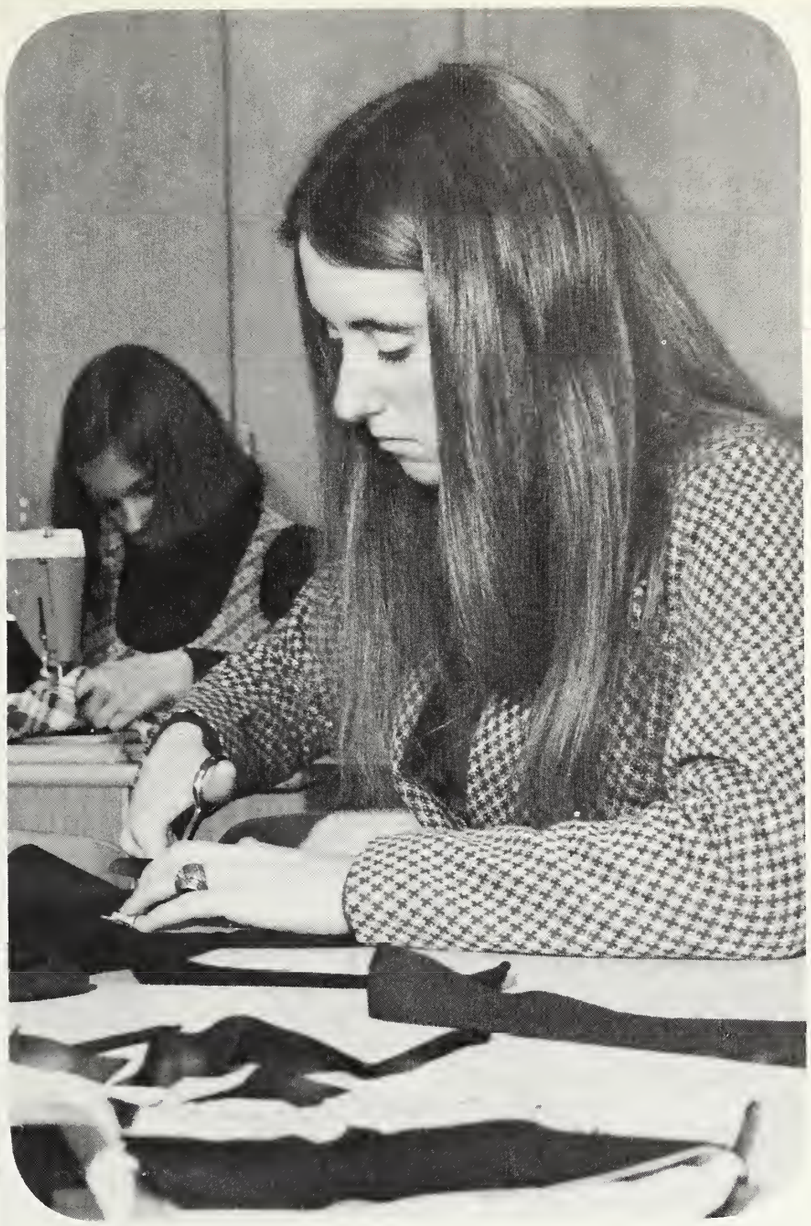
One new aspect for the Home Economics department this year was the manner in which displays appeared in the window. These displays were sponsored by different companies throughout the year. Levinsons' display of guys' clothes in the fall was used to promote interest among the male students. The idea was one of self-improvement. Singers was an example of another company which sponsored a display. Prices usually appeared in the window, giving students an idea of the costs.

Since the Home Economics department prepared girls for unlimited occupational areas, it was an important part of Warren's curriculum.

TAKING TIME OUT of her cooking responsibilities, junior Diane Kern takes a quick peek at the English material she will be tested over next period.

IN THEIR EXPERIMENTAL Foods class seniors, Cindy Prazeau and Rynn Strane, and juniors Sherry Stacy and Ingrid Vanceylon evaluate research projects.

SEWING IS NOT like it used to be. Lisa Duke, junior, uses an automatic button hole maker during her sewing class.



CUTTING A PATTERN is only part of sewing class. Nancy McGary, senior, concentrates on doing this while Kathy Scales, sophomore, makes a skirt.

Individualized Education • • instruction of students with specific academic problems

Many students have never realized it, but in the past four years Warren Central has offered a special program for those students having problems in specific academic areas. Two teachers, Mr. Greg McClure and Mr. Larry Muncie, worked together in giving individual instruction to these students.

Because the program was more vocational than academic, everyone involved strived to make it more of a work-study setup. Students involved spent most of their day in this program studying such subjects as math and English. However, many of them left during various periods of the day to attend classes such as physical education, art and home economics.

The students that enrolled in this program had a variety of problems ranging from only reading to a combination of academic and social difficulties. Those pupils who graduated planned to attend some type of vocational training school after graduation. Some of them planned to go on to an educational program at Cross Roads.

AUTO MECHANICS CLASS requires great concentration. Mark Stall, senior, removes a piston from a six cyclinder block.

IN PREPARATION FOR a vocation in electricity, Junior Jack Sheets carefully repairs a receiver in electronics class.

ELECTRONICS INVOLVES LEARNING how to assemble a radio or other electronic appliances as junior, Jesse Balinigt shows.

ACCURATE MEASURING IS an important part of drafting class. Senior, Henry McEndree concentrates on a difficult construction.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITIES IN industrial arts are shown by Pam Ostewig, senior, in drafting class.

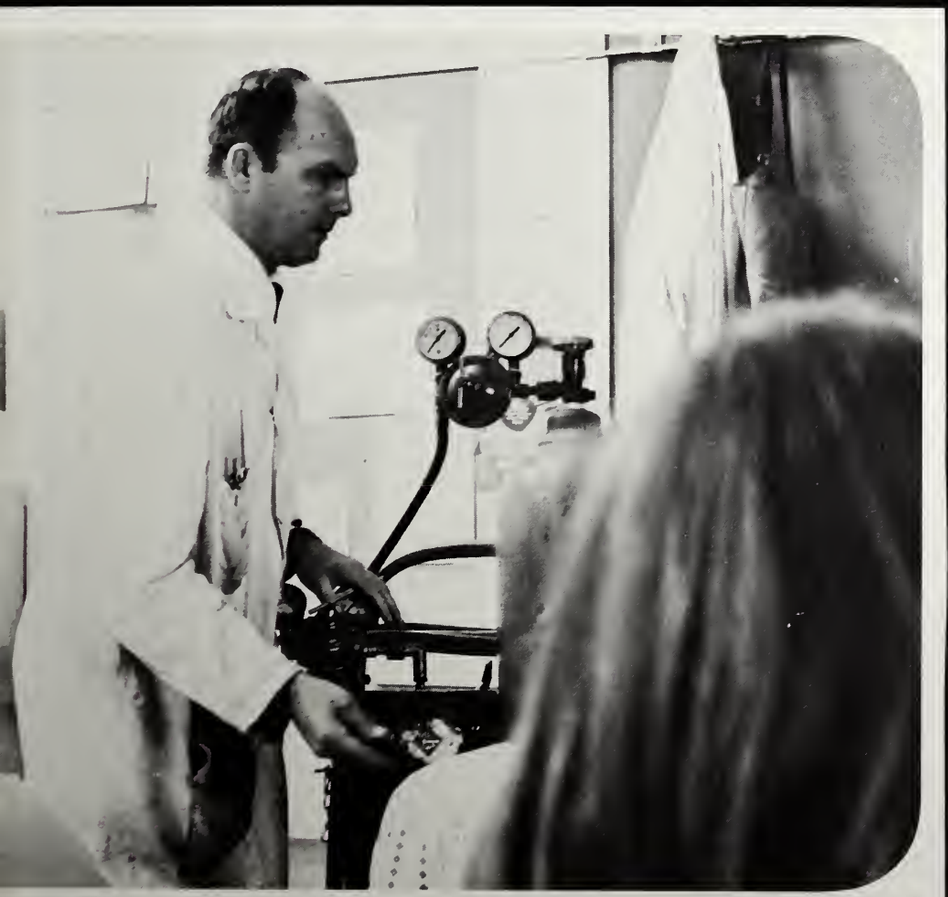
Industrial Arts . . . opportunities for all students male or female

SENIOR TOM VAIL operates the printing press. Printing classes print the Owl and school printed materials.

Industrial Arts have always played an important part in the curriculum of males. This year the female became more interested in industrial arts classes. Because of requirement changes, all areas are now open to girls. According to Mr. Eugene Crosier, chairman of the I.A. department, girls showed a strong interest, and enrollment became stronger. Industrial arts for girls was promoted more and more because not many girls realized the career possibilities in industrial arts. These possibilities include women printers, draftsmen, architects, and interior decorators.

Classes in industrial arts are leaning toward career education. Career education helps the students understand the many different facets that stem from one job or type of training.

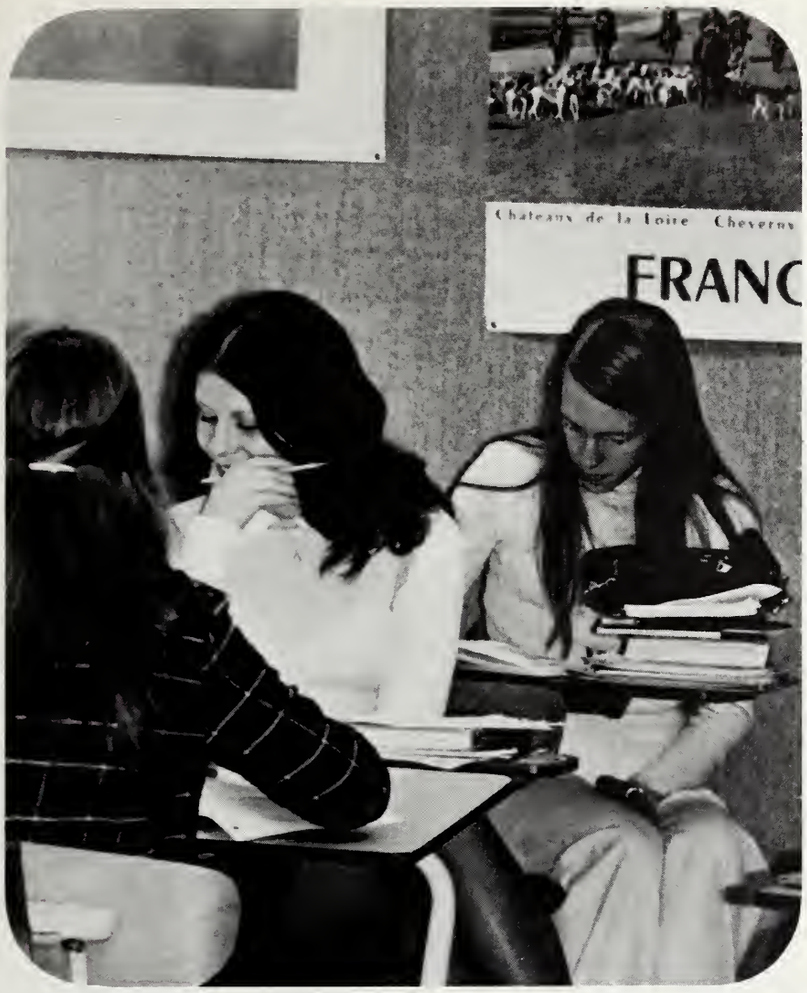


MR. EUGENE CROSIER, industrial arts teacher, demonstrates techniques used in welding during one of his machine shop classes.

Foreign Languages. . . comprehending speech, expressions of different nationalities of people

TAKING ADVANTAGE OF the quiet atmosphere in the language center, a student concentrates on a special project.

WHILE SOPHOMORE SUSIE Bridges does her homework, a fellow French student tries to steal her answers.



Languages should prove beneficial to all who participate in them. To provide students with the best possible education in foreign languages, this department not only employed new teaching methods but new teachers as well. Added to the department were Mrs. Beth Walker, Spanish teacher, and Mrs. Carla Harmon, German instructor.

The usual language courses in Spanish, French, Latin, and German were offered. A language student was able to enroll in up to four years of French, Spanish, or German. Latin was only offered according to demand and because of this only two years of Latin were offered last year. Almost every language has its annual banquet mocking the festivities, customs, and holidays of each language.

New materials were introduced to most of the classes and the books were phased in on the state required rental system during the year.

LEARNING A FOREIGN language requires determination and hard study. Juniors Becky Ocho, Meshia Tracy, and Sheila Cohren concentrate on finishing a French assignment.

SECOND YEAR SPANISH students Sue Gates and Donna White pause in their studying to laugh at a joke told in class.

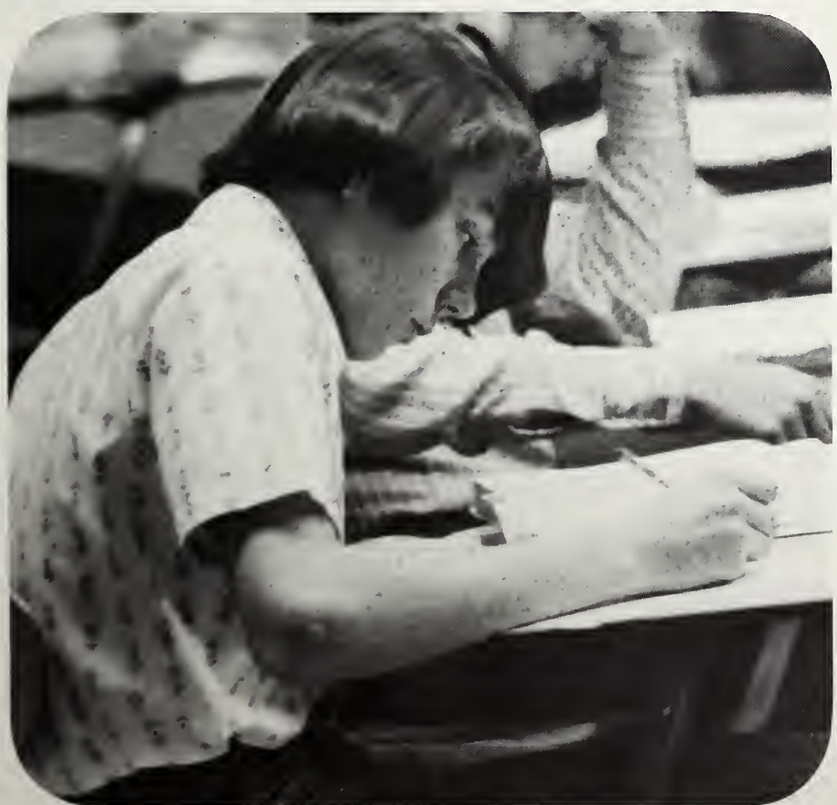
Math . . . dealing with quantities, relationships, numbers, signs, forms

STUMPED BY A geometry problem, Kim Krist asks for help from Fred Eans who studies the problem before explaining the solution.

DURING HIS PREP period, Mr. Robert Ledger utilizes his knowledge of calculus to solve a problem in mathematics.

FIRST YEAR ALGEBRA students groan as Mrs. Karen Lunsford passes back the test they took the day before.

CONCENTRATING ON GETTING a good grade, the tedious student works diligently to finish his math test before the period ends.



Students are required to earn two credits in mathematics, although some students decide otherwise and further their mathematic education. Math is defined as a language by some scholars because of its many interwoven groupings.

During the year the student should seek many different objectives. He should learn and understand the structure of mathematical systems that he can apply the information to similar systems. He should also become aware of his own creative powers in mathematics. The student should become skilled in many phases of mathematics. He should be able and skilled in the reading of mathematics, the usage of proofs, and computation. The student should understand the relation among the geometric elements. In the conclusion of the year the student should be able to see some of the applications of mathematics in summary of his work, summarized Mr. Ledger, mathematics department chairman.

THE TREBLETONES, ONE of the select vocal groups, practice under the direction of Miss Barbara Robertson.

All 12 music groups, both vocal and instrumental, participated and won regularly in contests and events and wore new outfits.

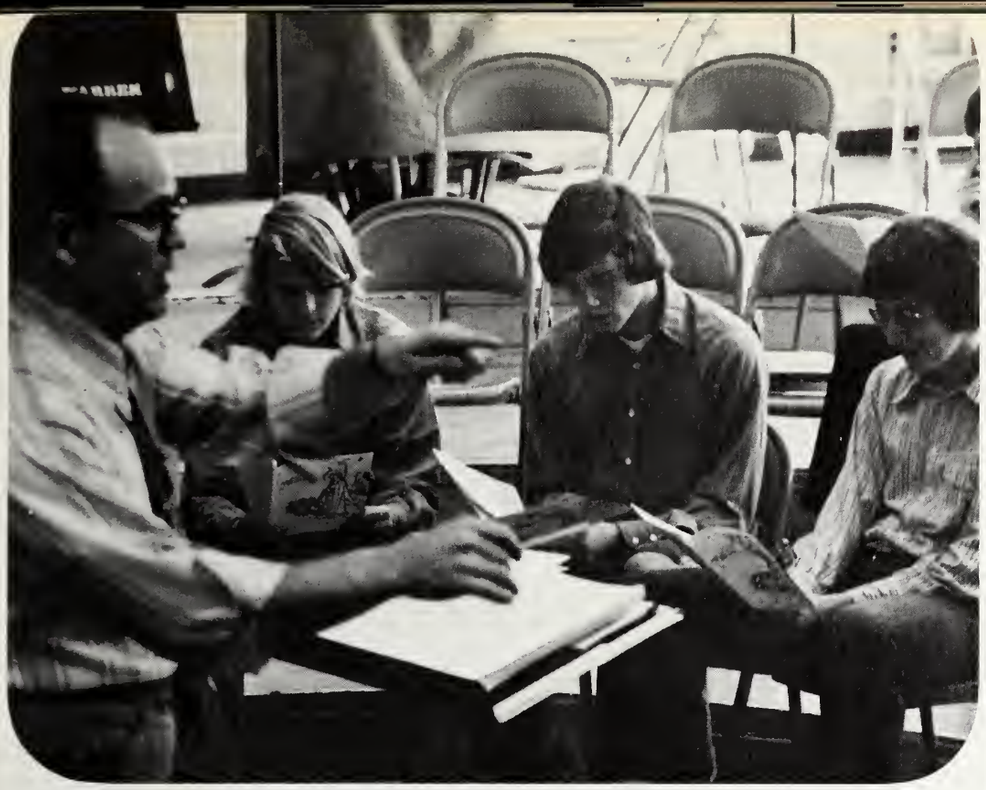
Jan. 26, large numbers entered the Solo-ensemble contest. The band received the honor to march in the Veteran's Day Parade besides presenting annual school concerts, "All that Jazz" and "Spring Winds."

Vocal groups also contributed awards and performed. Nov. 2, the Madrigals and Trebletones appeared at the Indiana Music Educators Association at Bloomington before presenting Christmas and Spring musicals. Feb. 28, a winter choral concert featured the Madrigals, Trebletones, and Windsors.

Symphonic orchestra also performed at IMEA Nov. 1. Its concerts included "Orchestra Pops Concert" in Nov. and the Spring concert in April.

SENIOR TIM HECK concentrates strenuously on playing the trombone during band class.

Music . . . learning, performing

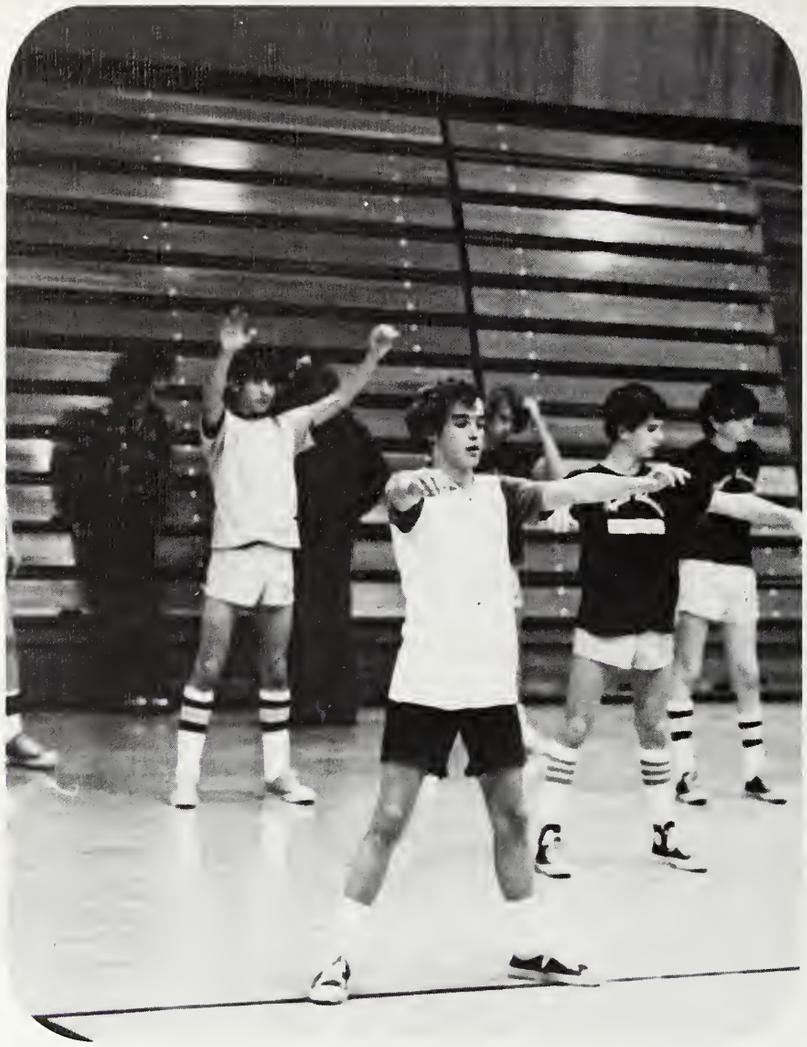


MEMBERS OF THE Windsors, Andy Litrell, Dave Lohman, juniors, and Rob Perdue, senior, listen to Mr. Phillip Dunn's instructions.

ROB McCONNELL, SENIOR band member plays with encouragement during a performance.

ORCHESTRA VIOLINISTS IN recital dress achieve sweet harmony with their strings.

Phys Ed . . . body training, development



DAILY EXERCISES IN physical ed. classes are considered important factors in staying healthy and keeping in shape.

Physical education involves athletic training, body development, and generally, keeping fit. The physical education program provides training and education as well as fun. Participation in activities is always emphasized. The classes participate in such sports as volleyball, gymnastics, basketball, wrestling, and other various activities. Through these activities the student should learn sportsmanship.

Students also spend six weeks of the semester in swimming classes. The students are placed in a class level according to their swimming abilities. These include beginners, intermediate, advanced, and lifesaving. The swimming classes should teach or increase the student's ability to swim.

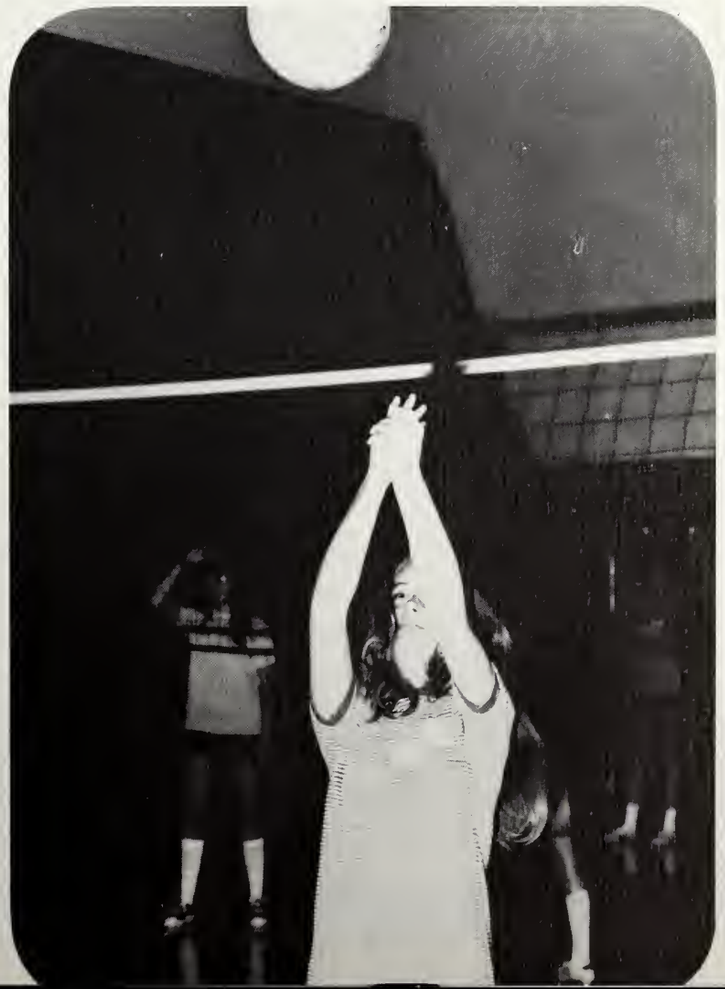
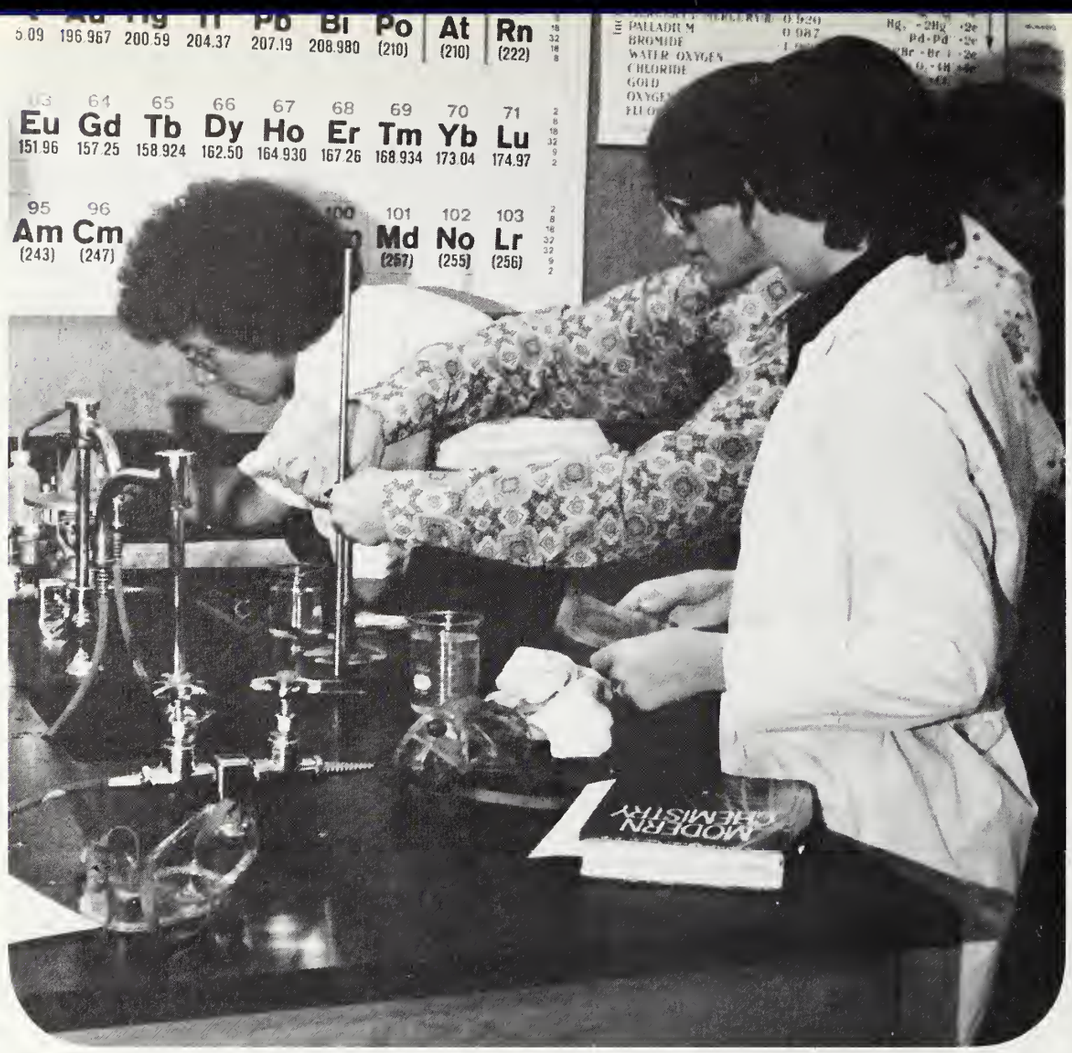
TEACHING SWIMMING INVOLVES doing it safely and accurately. Mrs. Barbara Houston demonstrates one of the basic kicks.

VOLLEYBALL DEVELOPS TEAMWORK as well as physical skill. Keeping her eyes on the ball, a sophomore gets ready to hit it over the net.

SIX WEEKS OF each semester of gym class are spent in learning swimming techniques. Restless and ready to swim are the guys during swim class.



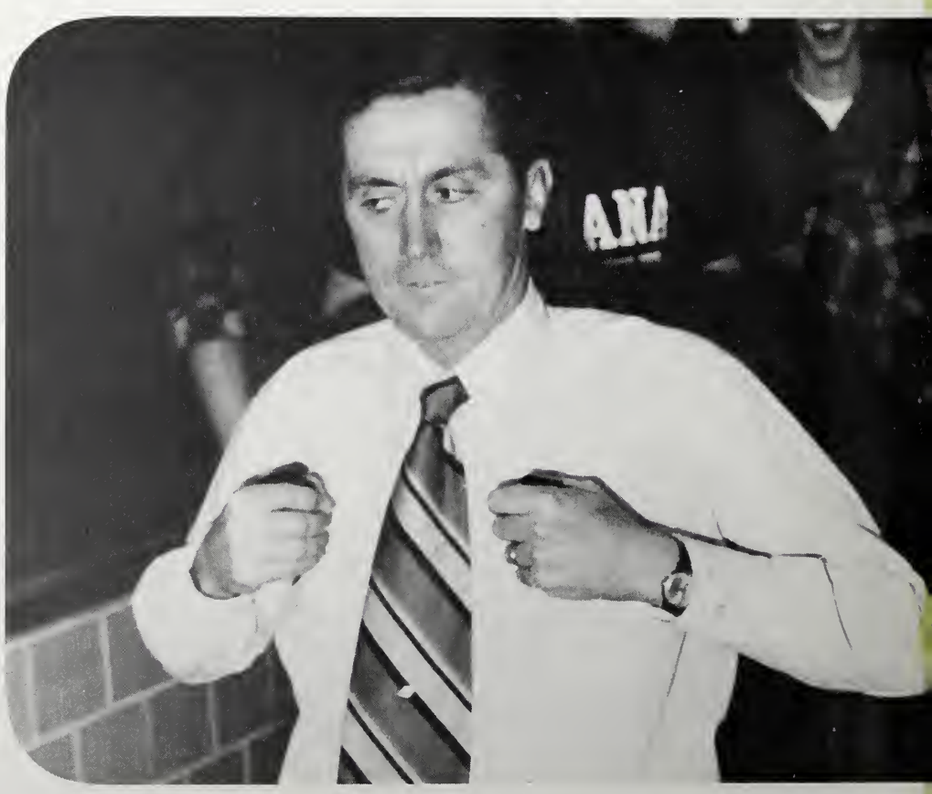


GREG DAY AND Dan Yubanks, juniors, find they need assistance from their teacher, Mrs. Cheryl Ross, while doing a complicated chemistry experiment.

Science . . . education dealing with everyday life, environment . . .

Science plays an important part in life. Students seldom realize its importance because science is usually thought of as a required have-to-pass class. Science has four major objectives that makes it essential to take science. One reason is because of the national concern of science. Our nation has become a nation filled with scientific knowledge. Another influence is the involvement of scientists in curriculum developement. Rapid expansion of scientific knowledge and a growing awareness among science teachers regarding their role in the advancement of science teaching also stand as important influences.

The science courses at Warren provide opportunities for students to develop the habit of using the scientific method in the solution of problems. It also provides the knowledge and understanding necessary to live in our world today. Science helps to satisfy the intense interests of students in the scientific things and to develop skills, attitudes, and appreciations that help the students meet his future needs. In addition Warren is concerned with the meeting of needs of the nation through helping to overcome the great present-day shortage of engineers, scientists, and technicians. Warren students of ability and interests in science will find these fields and opportunities available for a satisfying and renumerative career.



WITH WEIGHTS IN hand and class behind, Mr. Frank Tardy, physics teacher, demonstrates the movement of inertia.

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT prevailed even in the classrooms, as Susie Threlkheld, senior, and Mr. Max Miese decorate the science room.

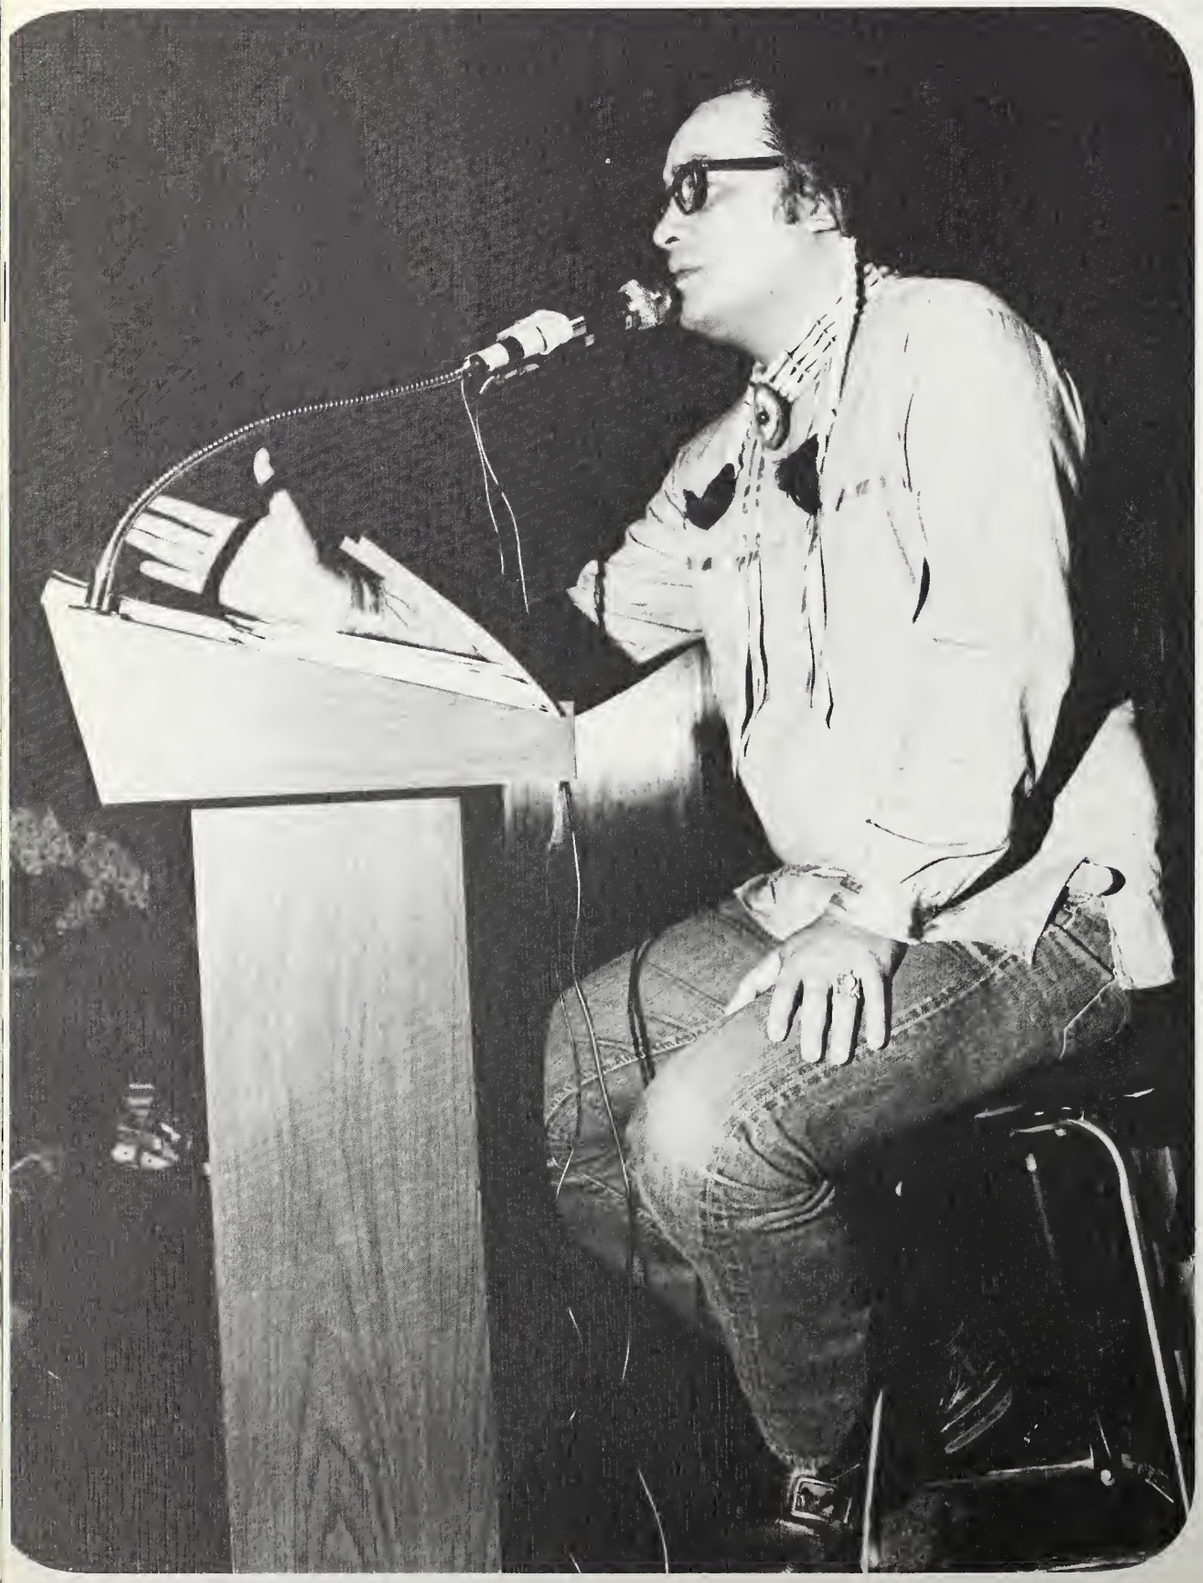
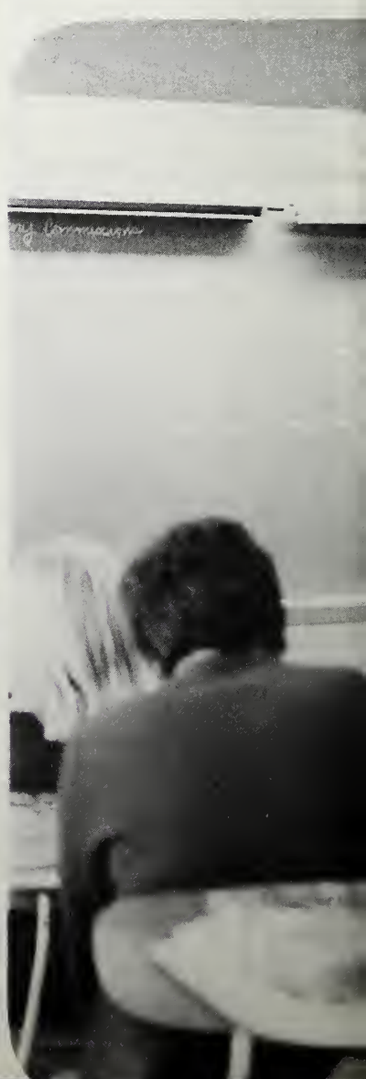
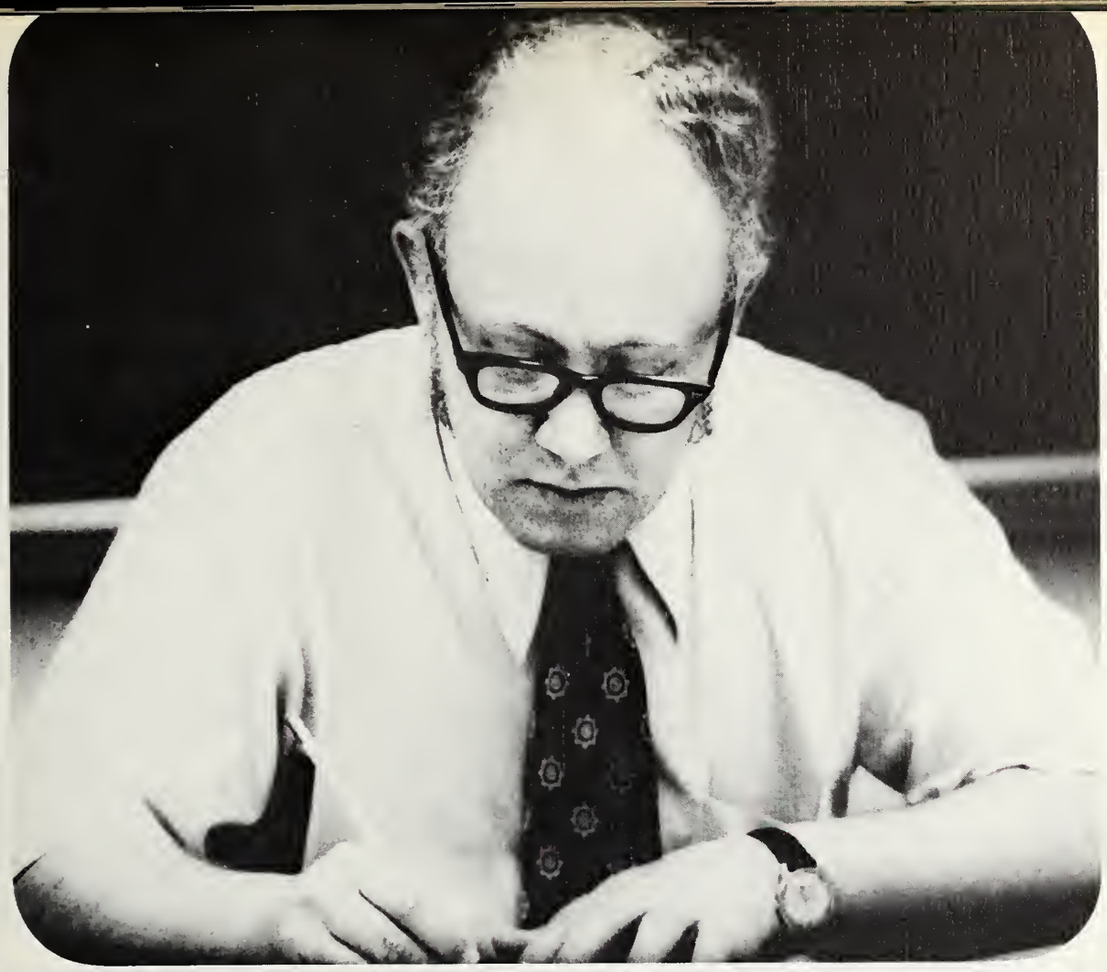
Social sciences . . . study world development . . .



MANY STUDENTS LISTENED to Mr. John Parker's discussion on the American Indian and his role in society today.





MR. LARRY KELLY TAKES time out to record test results from his U.S. History classes.

MR. RON ROACH'S sixth period government class discusses current events, one of the various class activities.

Two sessions of government and economics and one history session were taught during early bird. Also two classes of government were developed for slow readers. One big project in the spring was the adoption of the rental system and the selection of new textbooks.

Social studies juniors and seniors learned of the plight the American Indian as Mr. John Parker, Youth Program Coordinator for the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs, spoke about his people and himself and the injustices they have faced and are now facing with communication and discrimination problems. Mr. Parker is opposed to the "culturate" plan the government forced upon today's Indian and the modernization being forced on them. Mr. Parker stressed that "without our culture, we have nothing."

Several students traveled to Brownsburg High School Feb. 16, to attend the ninth annual Indiana High School Government Leadership Conference sponsored by Senator Birch Bayh. Along with students from many other Indiana high schools, they spent a full day hearing talks by and asking questions of Senator Bayh; Walter Cronkite, anchorman for CBS News; Dixie Lee Ray, Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; Ben Hooks, Commissioner of the Federal Communications Commission; and Rodger Davies, Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs.

The purpose of the conference was to "expose young people to responsible and dedicated government leaders for the dual purpose of informing them and encouraging them to devote at least a portion of their lives to the service of their communities, their state, and their nation."

. . . molds awareness of youth's role, responsibility in today's society

STUDENTS IN FAMILY living classes often arrange their chairs into a circle and enter into relaxed, informal discussions about various problems in married life. Seniors Loretta Rush and Cindy Essig listen as Steve Newcomb makes a comment.

"NATIONAL OBSERVER" OFFERS several articles that pertain to discussions in government and economics classes. Senior Cathy Guse glances through her newspaper to find related articles.

PSYCHOLOGY CLASS INCLUDES A study of children. In the midst of an experiment in child psychology, seniors Roni Donahue, John Barger, Rob Lewis, Andy Garrison, and Sue Stine, observe the actions of a small child.

FOR THE ANNUAL Christmas Concert, the music department decks the auditorium stage with yuletide spirit in song.

KALEIDOSCOPE

From an undeveloped stretch of land, a career center or a new shopping center or a gasoline station rise foreshadowing the growth of the city and its mobilized population. And we, the observers and participants see the kaleidoscope of individuals, changeless yet ever changing, on the lifeline between the days of yore and the days after tomorrow.

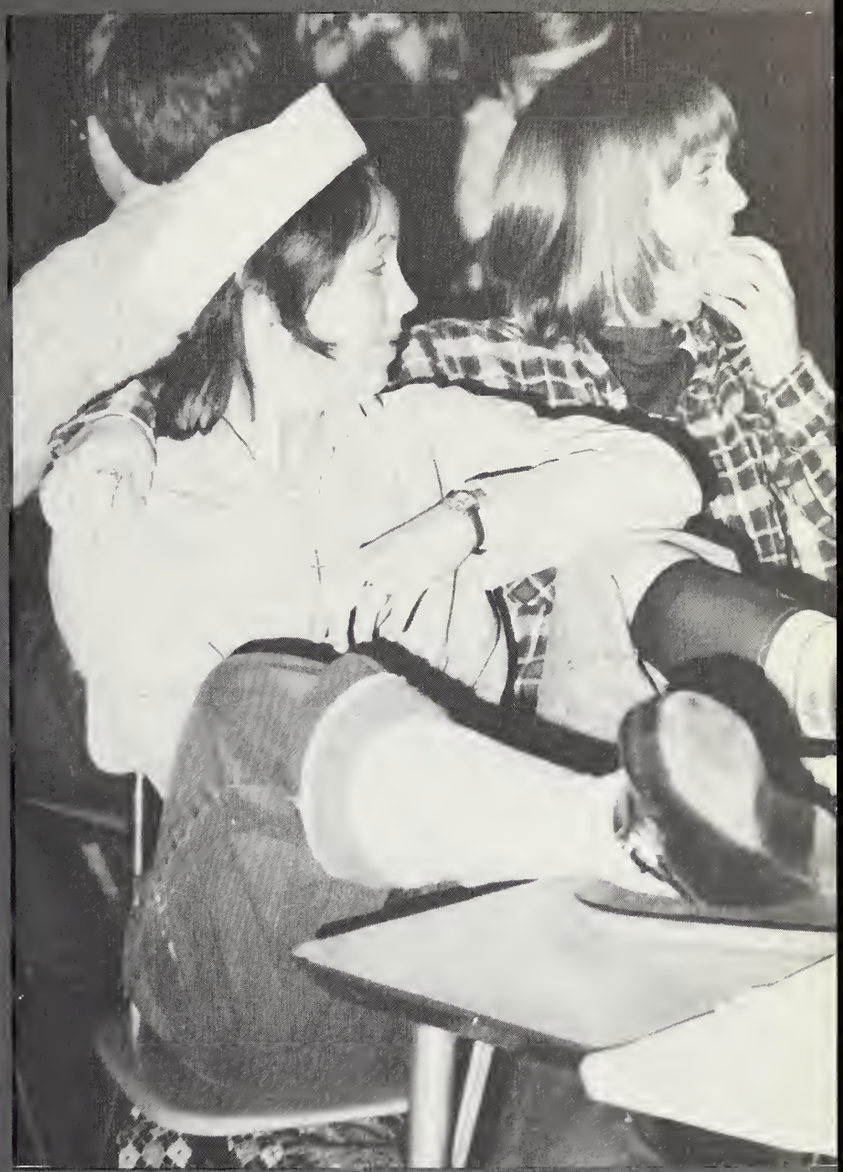
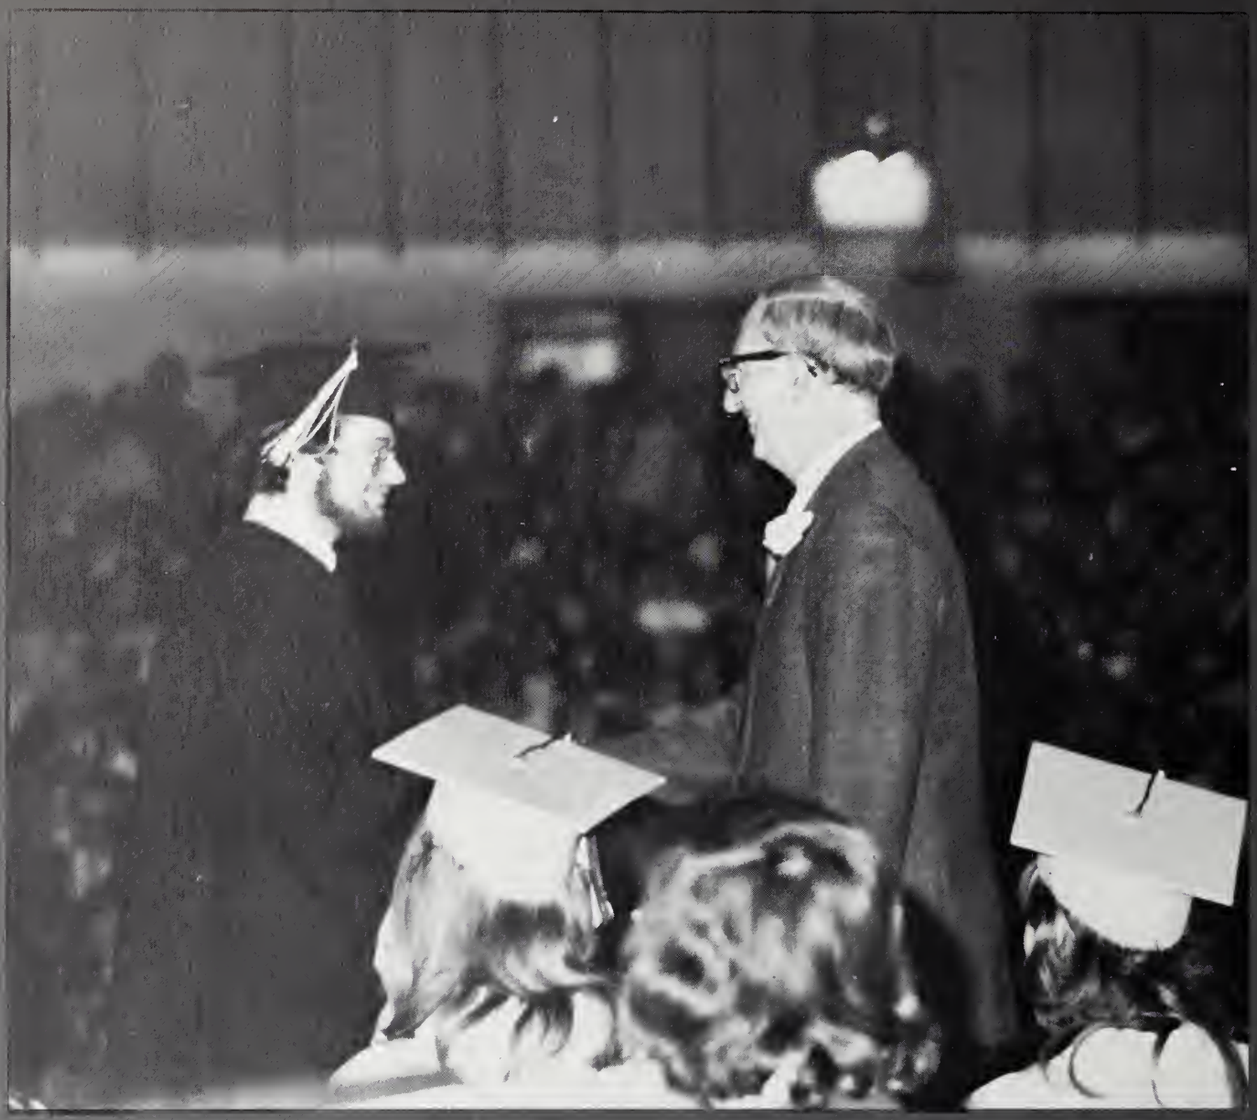
Senior dress down day brings odd combinations



DECKED OUT IN their tuxes, Seniors Rob Perdue and Mark Handy wear their grubbies for Senior Dress Down Day.

LOOKING LIKE TYPICAL seniors on Dress Down Day, Mary Wagner and Chris Younce relax in the cafeteria during lunch.



DR. JOHN O. Reed, principal congratulates graduate Kelvin Wilson upon receiving his diploma.

Warren Centrals' first mid-term graduation ceremony had a slight problem. It was held in the C. E. Eash Auditorium which was too small for all the 136 graduates' relatives, friends, and the remaining seniors. Many people had to stand in the rear of the auditorium Sunday, Feb. 3 while the orchestra provided music. Graduating seniors Carol Monschein, Linda Lawhorn, Jeanette Griffin, and Rusty Farmer were the speakers.

Graduation is the final step for some people, but for others it is just one step in completing their education. Many students took a big step, deciding on early graduation. They chose to leave Warren Central a semester before their friends, leaving a security blanket they had known for twelve long years. Some students left early to go right into college, others to get married, while still others just wanted a rest before four more years of school. Whatever their reasons, more and more students are planning on early graduation.

Mid-term graduates say farewell

THE MID-TERM GRADUATES enter the C. E. Eash Auditorium as the first February graduation begins.

WHAT IS A TEACHER?

Between the insecurity of student teaching and the golden age of retirement we find a delightful creature called a teacher. Teachers come in assorted sizes, weights and colors, but all teachers enjoy the same creed; To provide the student with education every minute of every class hour and to give advice (their only weapon) as the student leaves their class.

Teachers are found everywhere–in the classroom, in the bathroom, in the lounge, or in the faculty dining room. Good students like them, bad students hate them, pet students love them and administrators tolerate them. A teacher is TRUTH with critiques on your essay, BEAUTY with an 'A' in their grade book, WISDOM with a red marking pen and HOPE when they say you've passed.

When you have a test next hour they always want you to pay attention and when you're bored stiff they give you a study hall.

But teachers are a composite: They have the wisdom of the ages, the tact of a diplomat, the kindness of a grandmother, the skill of a craftsperson, the energy of the atom and the generosity of the Three Wise Men.

Teachers like prep periods, students that study, other teachers, the 3:26 bell, payday, Saturdays and summertime. They're not too hot on department meetings, Monday mornings, parents who think they're teachers, parents who think they're administrators, the 8:15 bell or Labor Day.

No one is more dedicated or underpaid. No one else could cram into one short hour a 45 minute lecture, a 10 point quiz, review for a test, hand back last week's essay and a brief study hall.

Teachers are delightful people and they are as much a part of you as any other factor in your growing up. You know you have a real friend when you walk into a class and see one of them smiling.

MARK J. WESTRA–U.S. History, driver education.

During the school year high school staff members displayed actions of irregularity, responsibility, and the desire to help others. An example of irregularity was a custodian, short of help and knowing it was not the way it should be, continued to strive each day to meet the problem the best he could. Also a cafeteria staff, faced with inflation and lack of market to buy food, dug in and continued the best it could with what it had. Actions of responsibility revealed a department that worked on schedule changes and completed the job with additional work without comments. Also, a teacher arranged and organized a program for the enlightenment of his students about minority groups. Calling from a hospital bed, a teacher planned for his students to participate in a meaningful experience. Desire to help was displayed when a teacher went down at 3:00 in the morning to help a student. These are but a few of the actions that occured during the school year.

LYNN L. WIESMAN–Assistant Librarian.
LARRY WILLEN–Typing, accounting, Assistant football and track coach; Accounting and typing are important to students because "they are saleable skills for those who try to develop themselves."

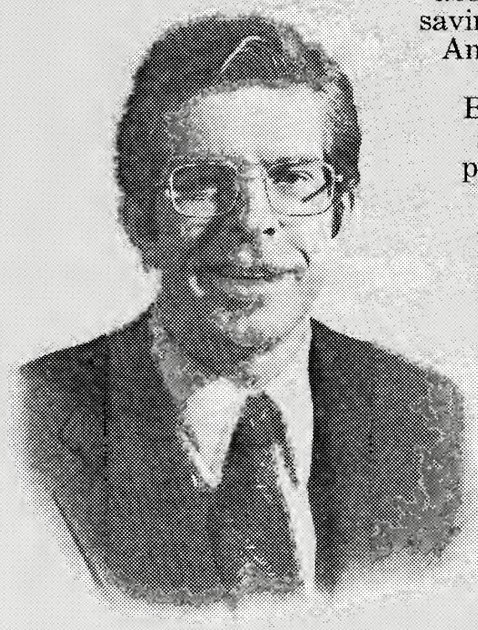
"Picking the right savings passbook doesn't have to be confusing."



"Of course people are confused about passbook savings. They hear so much about various interest rates, and different plans. But, choosing the right savings passbook, doesn't have to be complicated. That's where American Fletcher's 21st & Post Road Banking Center comes in. We try to sit and talk with our customers, before they open an account. By getting involved with them, we get a chance to know their savings goals. And, when we know what their goals are, we can help put their money in the passbook that will do them the most good. It's simple. We offer three savings passbooks. A regular. A ninety day. And, a Golden Premium term passbook. To earn the higher interest rate, you promise to keep your money on deposit for a longer period of time. Now, spending a lot of extra time with our customers won't make us any extra money. But it might save them some."

Leroy Summers is the American Fletcher Banking Center manager at 21st & Post Road. He's waiting to give you this kind of personal attention. At American Fletcher, our primary interest is you.

Liberation for who?

The secret silence of a day's departure quiet ardent hearts,
to a reminiscent individual joy.
A scarlet golden mass, a radiance, scatters bright recollections,
upon wide skies of happiness.
Today a hand reached out and grasped fulfillment.
A task was completed.
A child was born—
perhaps one died.

Mindy Chambers

My dreams change from day to day,
The things I hope and try and pray.
I dedicate myself
Interrogate myself,
"Are you sure that's what you want?"
And when I say "I will, I can,"
I think I'm better than I am.

The lake exquisitely reflects the trees,
The sun, the earth . . .

The trees, the sun, the earth, in turn, reflect the vitality of life . . .

I, in turn, reflect on the simple beauty of nature . . .

And all of us, I think, are exquisite reflections of "something higher."

He's the four seasons of my life
Fall is in his eyes of brown
Like the brown of fallen leaves
That glide softly to the ground

His love resembles the winter
Pure like the fallen white snow
Always feeling like a winter fire
Warming me from the winter cold

In the golden yellow and brown
I see spring in his hair
Like the bark of a spring tree
And yellow of a blooming flower

In his smile I see summer
Piercing my heart like a knife
Bringing sunshine to my world
The four seasons of my life

Flowers, like ideas, bloom everyday.
Some are crushed.
Some are laughed at.
And some are ignored, forgotten, or perish.
But all of them, in their own way, are beautiful.
Because someone cared enough
To create them.

Loneliness

The skies are gray,
the wind howls.
My mood is that of a lonely animal
Has he forgotten me?
Why do I cry?
Is the rain that falls my tears,
and the tears of
other lonely people?
I am lonely yet
I am not alone.
Why is this? Is it through some fault
Of my own?
Sorrow is cold.
I am so very cold.

I listen to my soul, but it has far to go
I listen to my words, but they fall far below.
Where I will end up knowbody. knows,
I let my dreams take me where my Heart wants to go.
I sat upon the setting sun,
I swam upon the devils lake,
but never never will I make the same mistake.

Distorted Silence

White lights
floating on the air Fast—then slow
change color as they fly
But now and then
they fall like rain
Just beside you

Look at them
So very high
upon the magic clouds of illusion
And still they sit and wonder at what is
In the mirror underneath the door

Staring down
They see nothing but a people who are there and really aren't
And they begin to feel that they are falling
But it scares them to know that they don't know where they are

The darkness of the Sunrise drifts into a space left by someone who isn't there
Then slowly they get to Their crooked feet
and stagger through the doorway into a
Distorted Silence

Barricades

I wanted to pet a dog yesterday,
But what would people say?
Is she trying to hurt our dog?
Leave him alone, go away!

I wanted to run in the fields yesterday,
But what would people say?
What has she done, stolen something
Or is she a runaway?

I wanted to play with the little boy yesterday,
But what would people say?
Is she giving him drugged candy
Or harming him in some way?

I wanted to sing as I walked,
But what would people say?
Is she on drugs? Is she high?
She really should be put away.

I'm going to be myself today,
Who cares what people say!

A Child's Words

Innocence
in children, loving,
a boy with a dirty face,
a soft pink face with sparkling eyes, smiling . . .

Trust,
earthy brown,
mother-child,
helpless to do otherwise,
in God and Daddy to make everything better,
A soft, slightly ragged blanket with a silk edge and a thumb.

Hope,
"and the deepest of these is hope, for no man can live without hope," light from some small, high window, a red scene from a child's mind,
a blue blanket with a silk edge, a small smiling face, looking up and saying simply, deeply—
"I love you."

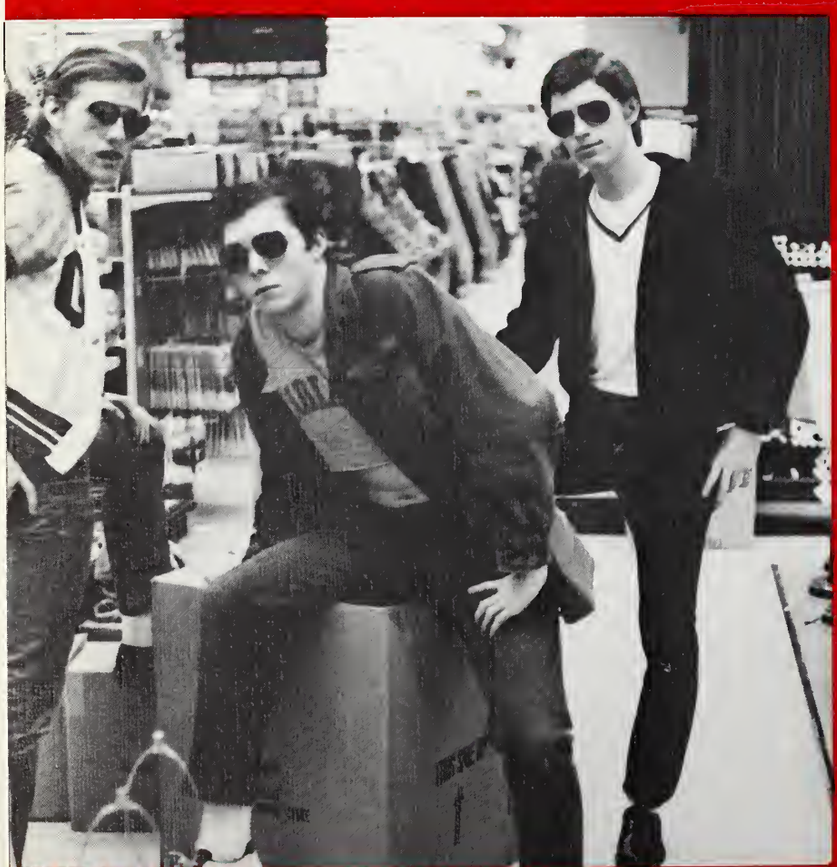
Students witness effects of industry

Industrialization and technology have affected the American society in past years, but this year Warren students themselves actually witnessed the benefits and consequences of it. The energy crisis, a direct result of technology, was the most visible aspect to students. Classroom temperatures were set at 70 degrees. Buses for extracurricular activities had to have their tanks filled by the group that used them. Last year's bus routes were changed to eliminate unnecessary steps to conserve fuel.

Another result that greatly affected Warren students and faculty was the increasing use of calculators by math students. This created a pressing problem in the department because math teachers had to decide whether students would be able to use their calculators on tests. The question of whether this was fair to students who could not afford the miniature computers arose.

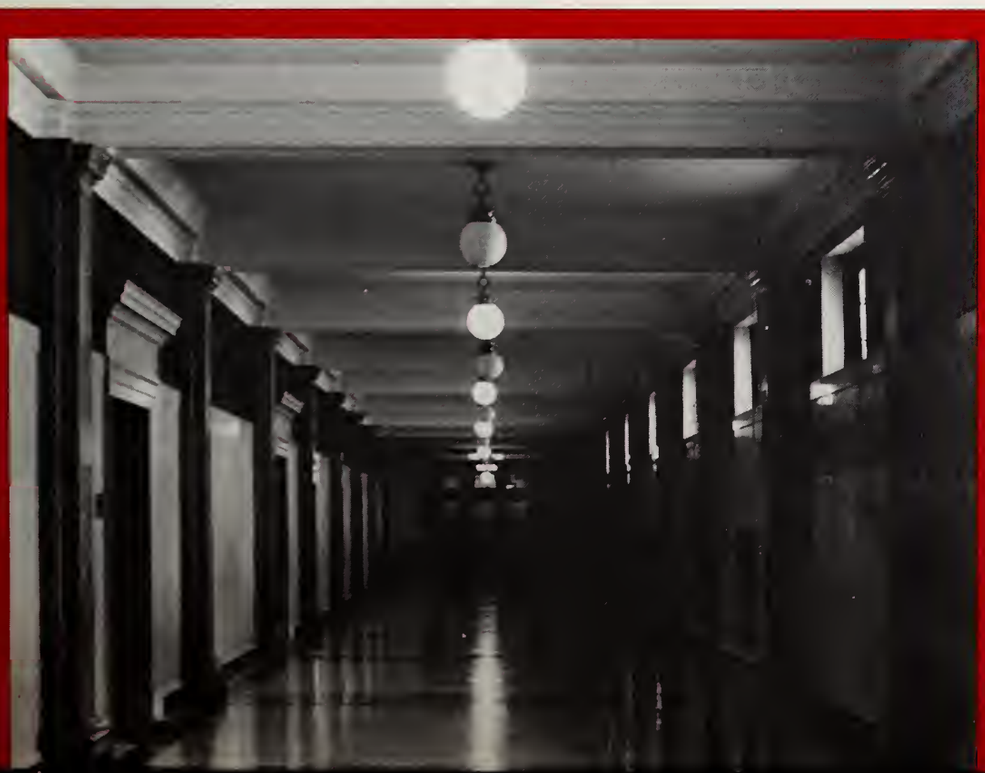
To forget the technological problems of today's society many students turned to nostalgia. It was common to see in the halls a person dressed in modern versions of the styles of the 20's, 30's, 40's, and 50's. Several musical groups emphasized the music of those eras . . Even WEDM went to some old time radio programs. Industrialization compelled students to pursue different interests and activities.

THE USE OF calculators by students became a problem for the first time in the Math and Science Departments.



DRESSED IN THE typical 50's garb, juniors Brian Oertel, Brad Ping, and Mark Marchetti mess around, acting "cool."

THE BASKETBALL PLAYER, the cheerleader, and the spectator represent the more traditional aspect of school.



AS OF MARCH 1 all speed limits were reduced to 55mph. To conserve fuel tankers, semis, as well as cars were forced to slow down. Student drivers continue to fill the school lot.

CUTTING DOWN ON the use of lights in the Federal Building is one of the many ways Indianapolis is trying to conserve energy.

Top—Radio T.V. advisory committee discuss ciriculum for upcoming career center in search for new ways to prepare students.

Below—Working in data processing, Mrs. Lautenslager prepares results of interest surveys taken in township secondary schools.

Career Center plans discussed

Mr. Scott Chandler explains details of the new career center.

Students search for place in society

Anticipated completion of the new career center in Fall of 1976 reflects one of the many ways teachers and administrators are searching to help students. In the Center they will be helped in their ceaseless search for a niche in an outside adult society with various occupational courses.

Teenagers explored many areas of mysticism, such as astrology and witchcraft with the aid of movies like "The Exorcist."

A new elective English course in Transactional Analysis interested the students who wanted to better understand themselves and their relations with others.

Kelley takes State, Sixth in nation

Mike Kelley could be described as the average all-American boy except for one thing. Mike is anything but average. Warren Central's own Mike Kelley just happens to be the number one swimmer in the state of Indiana and sixth in the nation in the breaststroke.

Mike has been swimming for twelve years and first became interested by watching his cousins compete in swim meets. He practices seven hours a day in the summer and between two and three in the winter. Awards for Best Mental Attitude, Most Outstanding Boy Swimmer, Most Improved Swimmer, and many others have been given to Mike in the course of his career.

Mike attributes his many awards and wins to his self-determination and the "will to win." His most exciting and rewarding experience came when he was selected to participate in the National Junior Olympics in Ann Arbor, Michigan last summer where he came in sixth in breaststroke competition. He later brought honor to Warren Central when he won state in the breaststroke in February. This is the second time in its history that someone from Warren has won state in any sports event.
